

A

0000 5661
6209
7

SOUTHERN METHOD OF PITMAN SHORTHAND

BRIEF COURSE

PITMAN
SHORTHAND

BARNES

B. O. BAKER
LAWYER
DALLAS, TEXAS

307

BARNES' BRIEF COURSE

IN

BENN PITMAN

B. O. BAKER

LAWYER

DALLAS, TEXAS

SHORTHAND

BY

MRS. ARTHUR J. BARNES.

Author of

Barnes' Shorthand Manual, Shorthand for High Schools,
Shorthand Lessons, Business Letters in Shorthand, Barnes' Series of Shorthand Readers,
Barnes' Typewriting Instructors.

ST. LOUIS:

THE ARTHUR J. BARNES PUB. CO.

1913.

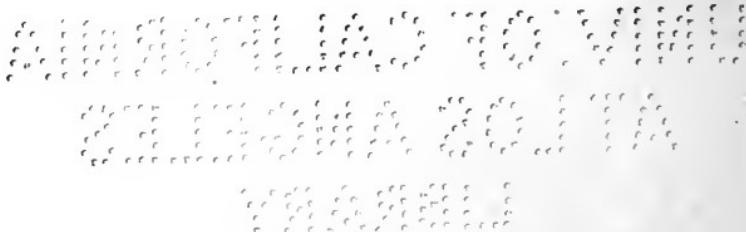

Especial thanks are hereby expressed to Mr. O. H. White, Mr. Arthur J. Barnes, and others who have kindly rendered me valuable assistance in the preparation of this work.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1907,

By Mrs. ARTHUR J. BARNES,

In the Office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington.

Medium soft pencils, well sharpened, or good fountain pens, are the best for shorthand writing. A fountain pen makes the best notes and is the cheapest in the end, but sometimes it is more convenient or even necessary to use a pencil. Reporters use fountain pens or else pencils sharpened at both ends.

PREFACE.

Twenty-two years ago (in Barnes' Shorthand Lessons of 1885) we departed from the usual method of shorthand authors and teachers in the following particulars:

All philosophy and unnecessary theory were cast aside, and the essentials of shorthand were presented in plain, simple language.

The vowels were grouped according to place instead of length, and a memory sentence given for each group.

Position was introduced immediately after the exposition of the vowels.

The reporting style, "Finality of outline" as it has been aptly termed, was taught from the first.

In Barnes' Shorthand Manual of 1888 we omitted, as useless and confusing, all but one of the twenty-four detached coalescents, we, wa, wah, ye, ya, yah, etc., and joined the semicircle to the stroke, as is done by most reporters.

In 1893 we took another advance step, and presented the second-place group of vowels first, because second position is the natural and the easiest position, on the line, the same as longhand. First position was taught simultaneously with the first-place vowels, and third position with the third-place vowels.

In 1900 we adapted the Sentence Method to the teaching of shorthand, sentences being given in the first lesson; the circle was introduced in the second lesson, and halving in the fourth.

These advances were at first vigorously opposed and severely criticised by some, but now almost every recent textbook gives prominence to some or all of these features, especially finality of outline; second-place vowels first, and position simultaneously with the vowels.

In "Brief Course" we are now introducing further improvements. The new features have been thoroughly tested by competent teachers, with results heretofore thought impossible. Among these features are the following:

Sentences, wordsigns, and simple phrases in the first lesson; telephone message and business letter in the second lesson; business letters in all subsequent lessons; ticks for the, a, an and and given before the dots, for first impression; circles and loops in one direction only until the habit is fixed; Ar or Ray simpler than ever; of-the indicated by proximity where it first occurs; questions at the end of every lesson; frequent review lessons; and, best of all, the important is given first, and minor points, exceptions, and special difficulties are postponed until the student has grasped the essentials. The main principles are not only more easily learned when given without the distraction of side issues, but they are firmly impressed upon the mind by continual use while learning the minor points of the later lessons.

As in our previous texts, the principles upon which contractions are based are clearly set forth, so that the reason as well as the memory aids the student in employing them.

By "Brief Course" we refer to the time required to make shorthand of practical value in office and court work.

This book presents the Pitman system of Phonography, as found in Isaac Pitman's ninth edition and in Benn Pitman's Manual, with a few speed expedients that have been adopted by a vast army of expert reporters. The shorthand in Barnes' text-books meets with the approval of the best Pitman reporters, and our texts are indorsed as "worthy of very high commendation, and in some respects superior to other texts," by so eminent an authority as Wm. T. Harris, Ph.D., LL.D., former U. S. Commissioner of Education.

LESSON 1.

1. Shorthand may be called a Picture of Sounds. Each shorthand word in this lesson is a picture of the sounds heard in the word.

CONSONANT STROKES.

\ \		/ /	— —
R B	T D	Chay soft ch	J j or soft g
Sound as in each		joy, age	hard g go

VOWELS.

$\vdash A \rightarrow \vdash \text{ate}$      $\vdash O \rightarrow \vdash \text{go}$ ,     $\vdash \text{toe}$ ,     $\vdash \text{ope}$

2. Learn the foregoing consonants and vowels by reading the words and sentences given below. See how soon you can learn to read the shorthand when the longhand is covered.

Omit Silent Letters.

Spell by Sound.

 pay	 go	 choke
 day	 oak	 tape
 aid	 dough	 page
 age	 ode	 dado
 gay	 bow	 opaque
 ache	 obey	 cocoa

3. Write all the consonant strokes in any outline without lifting the pen. Insert the vowel afterwards.

4. CAUTION 1. Do not slant T or D in the least. Make the shading and length of each stroke exactly as in the copy. When using double-ruled paper, make the first down stroke of an outline extend exactly from line to line. Write the second down stroke below the lower line.

5. CAUTION 2. Place the vowel exactly by the middle of the stroke.

6. Now cover the shorthand, and, looking only at the long-hand, write each word in the columns and sentences. Compare your work with the printed shorthand. Correct the slant of T or D. See to it that the horizontals are not too short or too long. Mark every deviation from the copy. Practice the corrected words until you know them; then rewrite and compare again.

7. When you have mastered the foregoing, you will know about one-fourth of the shorthand alphabet. See how soon you can learn to write the words and sentences correctly; then make a perfect copy of the whole.

CONSONANT STROKES CONTINUED.

M	Emp	N	Ing	heh	Hay	Ray
Sound as in lamp, ambush	mp or mb		ng rung bank	h	h	r

8. Hay and Ray are always written up. The other strokes in this lesson are never written up.

9. Use whichever form for h makes the sharper angle or more convenient joining with the following stroke.

VOWELS.

. = ē (Called eh). — egg

। = ু (Called uh). । up

10. Notice how much lighter these vowels are than the signs for A and O.

READ AND WRITE.

Ed Buck jump up. No monk may go. Wretch, hoe hemp.

— egg	— । aim	— । know	— । hem	— । ray
। peg	— । mow	— । neigh	— । hemp	। row
। etch	। gem	— । neck	— । hum	। rug
। edge	— । mug	। nudge	— । hump	। rung
। ebb	। pump	। tongue	। chay	। wrench
। tuck	। dump	। bung	। hoe	। meadow
। dug	। bump	। bunk	। head	। Jumbo
। jug	। jump	। chunk	। hung	। Hague

11. When Ray is joined to another stroke, its upward direction distinguishes it from the downward-written Chay. When not joined to another stroke, Ray should slant a great deal to prevent its looking like Chay. Observe the slant and direction in ray, row, rug and rung given in the last column. A slanting stroke may be slanted more or less as is necessary to make a sharp angle with another stroke.

12. In the middle of a word, A and O are distinguished from eh and uh not only by their shading but also by their place, A and O being always written by the first stroke, while eh and uh are always written by the second stroke.

	bake		rake		comb		rage
	beck		wreck		gum		red dame		hate		wrote		make deck		hedge		rut		Dutch tame		dome		hoed		judge
	peck		dumb		hut		name

13. Learn to read the above shorthand when the long-hand is covered, and to write the words when the printed shorthand is covered. Make both lines in Hay straight.

14. READ EVERYTHING YOU WRITE, not only for the necessary practice in reading, but also to ascertain if every stroke is properly written, and if the vowels are placed by the right strokes and exactly by the middle of the stroke. See also that O and uh are made slanting by a slanting stroke, horizontal by a vertical stroke, but vertical by a horizontal stroke; that is, always at right angles to the stroke.

15. A wordsign is an abbreviation or an exception. It is not written according to rule, but it expresses one or more of the most important sounds in the word. See first line of shorthand on next page.

16. The may be indicated by a light slanting tick, written down or up; as, know-the, may-the.

17. A, an or and may be indicated by a horizontal tick joined to the beginning or to the end of a word, whichever is more convenient. Ex. and know-a.

18. When a horizontal tick does not make a good joining, a vertical tick may be used for a, an, or and. Ex.  bake-a.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

dollar do had it him he I you owe to two . ?

do-you to-you to-the to-him you-may he-may he-may-go

I know you had it. He-may-go to-the bay. Do-you owe him too?

A musical staff consisting of five horizontal lines. It features several note heads of different shapes: a square, a circle, a diamond, a triangle, and a hexagon. Some note heads have stems extending from them, while others are plain circles or diamonds.

Do go to-the meadow. Rake up-the hay. He had to pay-the dollar.

A horizontal musical staff consisting of five lines and four spaces. It features several note heads of different shapes: a vertical line with a diagonal stroke, a horizontal line with a dot, a wavy line, a vertical line with a small circle at the top, a horizontal line with a small circle in the middle, a vertical line with a small circle at the bottom, and a vertical line with a diagonal stroke pointing down. Each note head has a stem extending from its right side, ending in a short vertical tick.

Judge Pope came Monday. You may hem-the cape. He had a-dollar.

Do go to-him. Pay him-the dollar you owe him. Two may go to-him.

Speed sentences :

He had to take it to you. Oh, I do owe him a dollar too.

19. Write each sentence many times. The speed sentences contain all the wordsigns given in this lesson. Practice them until you can write each one exactly like the copy four times in a minute; that is, at the rate of about thirty words per minute.

EXERCISE 1.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

QUESTIONS. 1. What may shorthand be called? 2. What letters are omitted in shorthand? 3. How are words spelled in shorthand? 4. How must a consonant outline be written (Par. 3)? 5. When is the vowel inserted? 6. Write and name the consonants and the vowels in their order. 7. What strokes are always written up? 8. What is said of the direction of the other strokes? 9. When should heh be used, and when Hay? 10. When joined to another stroke, how is Ray distinguished from Chay? 11. When should Ray slant more than Chay? 12. By what part of the stroke should the vowels in this lesson be placed? 13. In what two ways may A and O be distinguished from eh and uh? 14. Write the wordsigns for him, had, he, dollar, it, to, do, I, too, you, owe, two, oh. 15. Write the phrases to-the, do-you, he-may, to-him, you-may, he-may-go. 16. Is — G or Gay? 17. Are you apt to slant T and D to the right or to the left?

LESSON 2.

CONSONANT STROKES CONTINUED.

WRITTEN DOWN.

F	V	Ith th bath	The th bathe	Yay y	Ar r	Way w

Vowels.

20. *Obscure a, as in awoke and Dora, is pronounced practically the same as short u, and may be represented by uh. Uh is also used in such words as urn, earn, berth, birth, worth, myrrh.

21. The a heard in chair, dare, fair and pear is represented by A.

22. Learn to read the following sentences when the long-hand is covered, and to write them when the shorthand is covered:

They both make fudge. I know-the way-the knave tore-the door.

Dora may go to Tokyo. Nora and-Oyer may both go to Rome.

23. CAUTION. A slanting curve should not begin or end like T, K or Ith. Slant it out, not in. When making

* The Century Dictionary says of this vowel sound: "Even in the mouths of the best speakers, its sound is variable to, and in ordinary utterance actually becomes, the short u sound (in but, pun, etc.)."

Ith and The, curve out until half way down, then curve in so that the end of the stroke will be exactly under the point of beginning. The upper and the lower half of each stroke should be uniformly curved. Practice the foregoing sentences until you find it easy to write them according to these directions.

24. Both the angle and the vowel are considered in determining whether Ar or Ray should be used. If Ray does not make a good joining with another stroke, use Ar; and vice versa. Where both would make a sharp angle with another stroke, use Ar if the syllable sounds more like Ar; thus, use Ar in air, ark, early, tar, bore; but use Ray when the syllable sounds more like Ray; as, rake, rope, foray, bury.

Read and write the following words as directed for the sentences:

	fame		bathe		err		nave
	fetch		yea		fur		muff
	vetch		air		furrow		month
	above		pear		bur		goeth
	thumb		dare		burrow		awoke
	thump		fair		bear		berth
	awake		hair		thorough		forth

25. Making a stroke half as long as usual adds t or d.

no	note	ape	aped	vote	aided	hurt

26. The half lengths are called Pet or Ped, Bet or Bed, etc. Ted may be used for the final syllable -ted, and Ded for -ded, as in rated and headed.

27. But neither Hay nor Ray should be halved unless joined to another stroke, or to a hook to be learned later on.

hate    wrote    road    burrowed    furrowed    parade

Read with the longhand covered, and write with the shorthand covered.

get	thud	fetched	kept
date	nut	bathed	caged
pet	fate	thumbed	nudged
bed	cut	agent	gauged
fed	hummed	theft	method
jet	hugged	hedged	engaged met	hemmed	buffet	covet

28. Observe, in the last column of shorthand, that the horizontal stroke in each outline is written high so that the down stroke may rest on the line of writing.

CONSONANT STROKES CONCLUDED.

DOWN					UP
iss	S	Z	Ish	Zhe
Initial s			sh	zh
Medial s or z
Final s or z					Lay
					l

29. When iss begins an outline, it is read before everything else ; — before the vowel, before the stroke, before everything to be learned later on. Ex. soap, said.

30. When iss ends an outline, it is read after everything else—after the stroke, after the vowel, after the t or d indicated by halving, etc. Ex. votes, spades.

31. The circle iss is generally used for s; but the stroke S must be used when s is the only consonant next to the vowel, as in ask or also.

Hasten, Bess, and take Seth's razors to cousin Joseph. So you say Rosa may sew.

Ezra, show him the way to Zoar. Let him pay for the barege they showed you.

32. CAUTION. Be sure to make iss with a motion contrary to that of the hands of a clock. Put the vowel on the same side of the stroke as if there were no circle there.

33. Learn to read the words in the columns below when the longhand is covered, and to write them in correct shorthand when the printed shorthand is covered. Follow this general plan with all exercises unless otherwise directed.

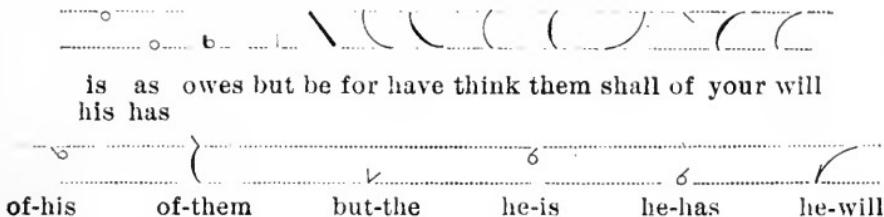

soap	oaths	notes	saves	essay
safe	yeas	gets	soaks	estate
said	sons	debts	searches	Zoar
Seth	chose	coats	surveys	shoves
such	yes	saved	surface	lull sage	does	skates	surges	lower stays	suppose	spades	roars	hole

EXERCISE 2.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

34. Learn the new wordsigns by writing the speed sentences. Work on each sentence until you can write it correctly at the rate of thirty or forty words per minute.

Speed sentences:

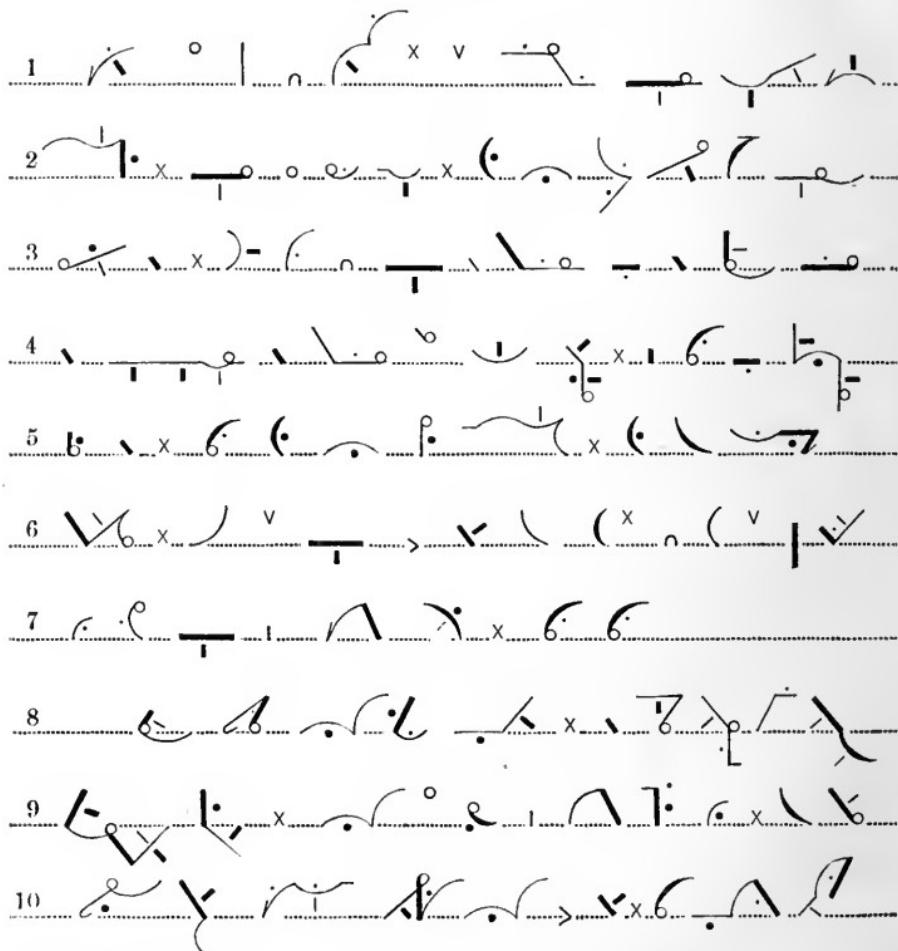

He thinks it is safe for his son to have it. Shall I say you-will-take two of-them as yours? He owes Ezra, but-the debt will-be paid Monday

35. Write the following exercise in longhand; then from your longhand write it in shorthand. Write the letter several times.

EXERCISE 3.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

Judson Hedges,
Mail Agent, Cairo.

Two coaches upset-and wrecked above Jonesboro depot.
Mail is saved, but will-be a-day late. Have bus hasten both Helena-and Rosedale mail to-the boat.

Yours,

Caleb Rutledge.

QUESTIONS. 1. What may represent the obscure sound of a, as heard in awoke, arose, Emma, etc.? 2. What represents the vowel sound heard in earn, her, fir, word, etc.? 3. What represents the vowel sound heard in chair, fare, pear, etc.? 4. What is said of the slant of the slanting curves? 5. How should Ith and The be made? 6. Give two cases when Ar should be used instead of Ray? 7. What is indicated by halving a stroke? 8. Name some of the half lengths? 9. How may ted or ded be represented? 10. When can Ray and Hay be halved? 11. When an outline begins with a horizontal followed by a down stroke, where should the horizontal be written? 12. What is the only up stroke in this lesson? 13. When iss begins an outline, should it be read before or after the vowel? 14. When iss ends an outline, should it be read before or after the vowel? Before or after t or d indicated by halving? 15. When should iss and when should S be used? 16. With what motion should iss be made? 17. Name the down strokes in this lesson in their order. 18. Name the up stroke. 19. Write the phrases: He-will, he-has, he-is, of-them, but-the, of-his.

LESSON 3.

REVIEW, WITH ADDITIONAL POINTS.

36. Write Lay, Ray and Hay up. Write the horizontals from left to right. Write the other strokes down. Write iss with a motion contrary to that of the hands of a clock.

37. Shorten words by omitting all silent and unnecessary letters. Represent a double letter by a single sign. For instance, write only one s in chess, only one n in funny, only one k in tobacco.

38. Write by sound. Begin case, chorus, choir and quire with K. Use  $\underline{\text{--}}$  or  $\underline{\text{—}}$  for x, as in  $\underline{\text{L}}$   $\text{o}$  hoax. Use Zhe for the s in vision, the z in azure, and the g in mirage.

39. Use Hay before N and Ing, but use heh before the other horizontals and before Lay, Ar, and Way, because it makes a sharp angle with those strokes.

Ex.

When a word may be written in two ways, choose that form which is easy to read. If both are easy to read, use the one which is easier to write.

40. Use whichever form for r makes a good joining. If both Ar and Ray would join well, use Ar when the syllable sounds like ar; as in air, ore, ark, our, jar, door, tore; but use Ray when the syllable sounds like Ray, as in rake, rope, foray, bureau, dairy, etc.

If the vowel goes before,

The r you must lower; (Use Ar) Ex. ↗ err-or.

But a vowel at the end

Makes the r to ascend. (Use Ray) Ex. ↙ ro-ta-ry.

41. When Ray is joined to another stroke, its upward direction distinguishes it from the downward-written Chay. When alone, Ray should slant much more than Chay, and therefore need not extend to the upper line.

42. A few combinations like ↗ lower, ↘ fair, and ↖ roar, join without an angle, and must be written with a continuous motion, i. e., without letting the pen stop between the strokes. As a rule, however, the sharper the angle between two strokes, the easier it is to read the strokes. Always make a sharp angle between Lay and M or Emp; also between F or V and N or Ing. Practice the following:

43. A stroke may curve more or less, or may slant more or less, as is necessary to make a sharper angle between strokes.

Ex. ↗ Nora, ↗ rate, ↗ pay day, ↗ peck,
↘ make, ↗ meadow.

44. Making a stroke half as long as usual adds t or d. The half lengths are called Pet or Ped, Bet or Bed, Let, Met, etc. Ted may be used for -ted, and Ded for -ded, as in ↗ hated, ↗ raided; but neither Ray nor Hay should be halved unless it is joined to another stroke, or unless it has a hook (to be learned later on).

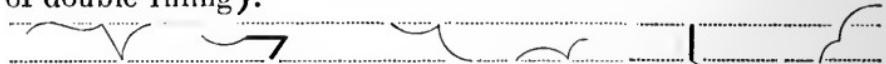

45. The circle iss is generally used for s. But when s is the only consonant by which the vowel next to s can be placed, as in ask or also, then the stroke S must be used.

46. When iss begins an outline, it is read before everything else—before both stroke and vowel. Ex.  soap,  save.

47. When iss ends an outline, it is read after everything else—after the stroke, after the vowel, after t or d indicated by halving. Ex.  days,  dates,  gets.

48. The shorthand outline of a word is a picture of the consonant sounds heard in the word. An outline must be written WITHOUT LIFTING THE PEN.

49. It is not necessary to move the hand at a snail's pace in order to write correctly. When writing an outline, think of the first stroke, and write it both correctly and quickly. Then hold the pen quietly on the paper until you have decided what the next stroke should be; then make the second stroke, like the first, with a quick, precise movement. But if the first stroke is a horizontal, look ahead to see if there is a down or an up stroke in the word, for if there is, the horizontal must be written high or low as is required to make the first down or up stroke rest on the line of writing (the lower line of double ruling).

monopoly   engaged   enough   melt   deputy   lately

50. In the exercise below, omit the vowels in the first two groups, and write only the outline of each word.

WRITING EXERCISE.

Use strokes instead of heh or iss or halving. So, essay, Eskimo, escape, sew, also, Jessie, Bessie, lazy, tongue, among, length, zany, zenith, bathe, thump, Dakota, pagoda, picnic, buggy, depth, tobacco, chimney, damage, lull, lunch, avenge, foliage, theology, loam, lump, funny, jump, lumbago, chunk, zinc, heavy, honey, awake, headway, shady, shapely, hush, yea, cope, gayety, mouth, monotony, monopoly, ambiguity. Use Ar: Four, shore, pour, lower, oyer, earlier, tailor, Rome, alarm, form, rump, remedy, rummage. Use Ray: Dairy, berry, faro, sherry, thorough, uproar, terror, inferior, interior, rhythm, revenue, revive, Russia.

Use iss. Halve for t and d: Shakes, ducks, jokes, edges, efface, stays, snows, suppose, muffs, knaves, snuff, fate, let, shut, notes, debts, votes, beds, coats, spades, skates, saved, sent, melt, delayed, left, legitimate, metal, kept, envied, methods, lately, cutlet.

Insert vowels. Slant heh like Chay: Hail, hull, hulk, helmet, hump, Hague, hoax, hemp, hoar, hurl, hurt, hemmed, humbug.

Write A or O by the first stroke; eh or uh by the second stroke: Baked, beck, dame, deek, choked, tucked, dome, dumb, wrote, rubbed, rogue, rush, lake, luck, pole, pump, fame, fetched, jail, hung, death, vague, neck, waylay.

51. The tick for the generally slants like Chay and is called Choid, meaning like Chay. (Oid means like.) When, for the sake of a sharp angle, the tick slants like Ray, call it Roid; when it slants like P, call it Poid. Ex. ↘ for the, ↗ had-the.

52. The horizontal tick for a, an, or and is called Koid, and the vertical tick Toid. Use Koid when it makes a good joining. Ex. ...[ and-had-a, ↗ make-a.

Make all ticks as short as possible and yet be distinct.

53. When convenient, a dot is used for the syllable -ing, and a detached slanting tick for -ing-the. Ex. ! doing, ↓ doing-the, ↘ paying, ↘ paying-the; but facing,

 ↙ facing-the.

54. When convenient, the wordsign for you should be phrased, even though it is thrown out of its usual position.

55. Of the may be omitted and indicated by writing the preceding and following words very close together.

Ex. / edge (of the) door, ↗ shape (of the) face.

56. In phrasing, the pronoun I is generally represented by one-half of the wordsign <sup>v</sup> I. Use Poid, the downward half, before an up stroke. Ex. ..... I-will. But use Roid, the upward half, before a down stroke. Ex. ↘ I-have, ↗ I-shall, ✕ I-suppose. Observe in the case of I-will given above, that the I is written in its usual place, causing will to be written higher than usual.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

57. The wordsign for on is ALWAYS WRITTEN UP.

was which usual-ly several this that good are Feb. on on-the Yours-truly

I-will make this note on-the 15th (of the) month. Several (of the) notes I-have for-you are of-that date. Which (of the) checks shall I mail-you on Feb. 17?

I-suppose he-wrote-you as usual. It was-a good show. You-are saving that which-you pay for. You-will get-the goods for which you-wrote.

WRITING EXERCISES.

I-think you-will-take up this-case for-him. But does-he think-you-are so good? Oh, you-are taking-the goods to-him too? He-has usually had several debts to pay. Shall I pay-the two dollars he-is owing? Will-you be on deck?

BUSINESS LETTER.

Ladies: I-have-yours (of the) 5th, saying that-the case of goods for which I wrote-you on Feb. 28 was sent on-the fourth, and-I expect it Monday. I-suppose I-shall-have several (of the) capes left, and-will save them for-you as usual. I-will mail-you-a check for $12.00 on-the 14th (of the) month. Yours-truly, QUESTIONS. 1. Name the up strokes; the horizontals; the down strokes. 2. With what motion is iss written? 3. What letters may be omitted? 4. How is a double letter represented? 5. Why do you use Hay in heavy instead of heh? 6. Why do you use heh instead of Hay in hem? 7. In a word of two strokes, how can you tell Ray from Chay?

8. How are they distinguished when alone? 9. Do you make an angle between Lay and Ar in lower? Between Lay and Emp in lump? 10. For what purpose may the curve or slant of a stroke be increased or diminished? 11. What is the effect of halving a stroke? 12. Name some of the half-lengths. 13. When may Ray and Hay be halved? 14. If iss begins an outline, when is it read? 15. If iss ends an outline, when is it read? 16. Where do you begin to write the outline of cup? Of engaged? 17. In what directions may the be written? A, an, or and? 18. How may of the be indicated? 19. In what two ways may -ing be written? -ing-the? 20. Explain how I is phrased. 21. In what direction should on be written? 22. Name the words represented by the following wordsigns:

23. Give the words represented by the following wordsigns: T, B, F, Ith, The, Ish, Yay, Lay, Z, Chay, Zhe, iss-V, Get, Ar or Ray. 24. Write the wordsigns: Shall, will, of, but, have, your, think, for, them, has, be, his, as, is, was, do, which, to, but, usual, two, that, several, dollar, on, good, this, had, usually, too, he, I, you, him.

B

LESSON 4.

VOWELS AND POSITION.

58. Vowels written by the beginning of a stroke are called first-place vowels. Ex.  my.

59. Vowels written by the middle of a stroke are called second-place vowels. Ex.  oak.

60. Vowels written by the end of a stroke are called third-place vowels. Ex.  use.

61. Second position is on the line of writing, the same as longhand. Ex.  love,  cage,  among.

62. First-position is higher than second position; as  buy.

63. Third-position is lower than second position, as  use.

64. As a rule, if the vowel in a word is first-place, the outline is written in first position; if the vowel is second-place, the outline is put in second position; if the vowel is third-place, the outline is written in third position.

65. A, O, eh, and uh are the second-place vowels, written by the middle of a stroke. They were given first because the second position is the natural position, on the line of writing, the same as longhand.

FIRST-PLACE VOWELS.

 = E = Aw = I

 Lee, bee, heat

 talk, wrought

 sky, rye

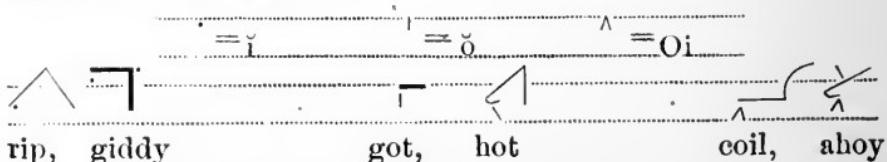

66. Since first-place vowels are written by the beginning of a stroke, they must be placed by the bottom of the up strokes, Lay, Ray and Hay. See Lee, heat, and wrought given above.

EXERCISE 4.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

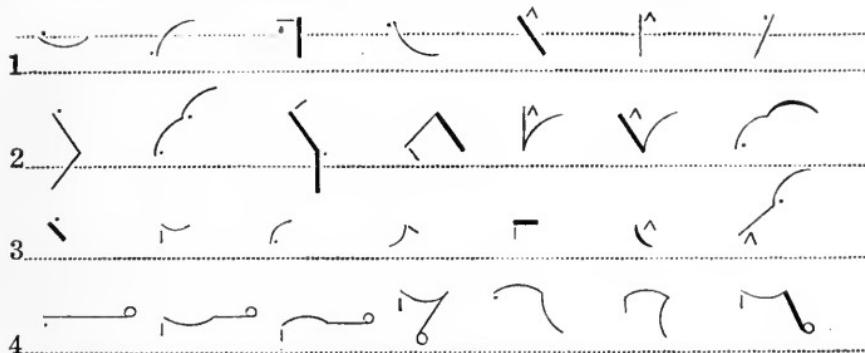

67. Examine your work carefully to see if every vowel is exactly by the beginning of the stroke, if every dash vowel is at right angles to the stroke, and if each outline is exactly the right distance above the line of writing — half a stroke above unless the outline is purely horizontal; then a stroke above. If you find errors in your work, copy the lines again more carefully; then read them from your notes. READ EVERYTHING YOU WRITE.

68. The names of these signs are their sounds, i, o, and Oi, as heard in if, odd and oil.

EXERCISE 5.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

69. When occurring between two strokes, first-place vowels are always written by the first stroke. See Exercise 5, lines 2 and 4.

70. When convenient, I and Oi may be joined to the following stroke, as in I-idea, V-oily.

71. A word containing two or more vowels should be written in the position indicated by its most important or distinguishing vowel. This is generally the accented vowel.

72. Unimportant unaccented vowels, also the vowel in the name of a stroke, will often be omitted in future shorthand exercises. Thus, unaccented i may be omitted in E estimate and e in V-delay. See line 2 in Exercise 6.

VOWELS PLACED BY K.

E	Aw	i	o	I	Oi
----------	-----------	----------	----------	----------	-----------

WRITE TEN TIMES.

L Lee	saw	J Jim	R rob	m my	b boy
-----------------	------------	-----------------	-----------------	----------------	-----------------

EXERCISE 6.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

73. It is always the first down or up stroke in an outline that is put in position, the other strokes accommodating themselves to this stroke.

74. In a first-position outline, the first down or up stroke should be half a stroke above the line; but a purely horizontal outline should be a stroke above the line.

75. If double rulings are used—

Write horizontals and half lengths under the upper line and touching it.

Write other strokes through the upper line, half above and half below it.

76. In an outline beginning with heh or iss, place the vowel at the very beginning of the stroke, and on the same side of the stroke as if there were no brief sign there.

eat seat seated awl haul since cited

WRITING EXERCISE.

Use strokes for s, h, t and d. Use Ray for r:

See, shy, sigh, pshaw, saw, thee, ease, vie, coy, odd, imp, eyed, joy, thy, thigh, right, deem, daub, rob, rock, if, easy, haughty, nip, gaudy, king, gong, wrong, heed, hitch, hot.

Use the brief signs iss and heh. Halve for t and d:

Sing, song, sin, since, hock, hymn, sheet, light, knot, might, feats, lot, hill, Hoyle, spit, spot, sob, sieve, sift, Scott, sky, seek, sick, locks, licks, mix, knits, nibs, moths, sniffs, siege, chips, fibs, folly, volley, lily, little, holly, hilly.

77. The first word of a phrase is generally written in its proper position, and the other words follow without regard to position. Ex. I-will-have, in-case. But when a, an, or and begins a phrase, it takes the position of the following word. Ex. and-is, and-as, a-dollar, a-light. The same is true of he. Ex. he-will, he-was.

78. H is often omitted in words of frequent occurrence.

Ex. here, why, high, happy, hope.

BUSINESS LETTER.

Citizens' Lodge:

I have yours (of the) 4th, in which you say you will take a page in February Home Monthly. In case you do this each month, I shall make a dozen page talks to many a head (of the) office and (of the) home which no agents of yours have reached.

You say your Lodge is forging ahead as usual. I think the cause of this is easily seen in your choice of good business methods.

If you have several cuts (of the) Lodge, let me have them by early mail.

Yours truly,

QUESTIONS: 1. Where are first-place vowels written? Second-place? Third-place? 2. When is an outline written in first position? When in second position? When in third position? 3. Where is second position? Where is first posi- tion? Where is third position? 4. Where should a first-place vowel be written if the stroke is horizontal? If it is an up stroke? If a down stroke? 5. When a first-place vowel comes between two strokes, by which stroke is it written? 6. What vowel signs may be joined to a stroke? 7. If a word contains two or more vowels, which vowel decides the position of the word? 8. What is said of unimportant unaccented vowels? 9. Which stroke in an outline is put in position? 10. Where do you place the horizontal in notch? In mile? 11. Where should a first-position horizontal be written? 12. Where should a first-position down or up stroke be written if full length? If half length? 13. In an outline beginning with heh or iss, where is a first-place vowel written? 14. Which word in a phrase is generally written in position? 15. What words take the position of the following word? 16. What consonant is often omitted, and when?

LESSON 5.

BRIEF SIGNS.

heh	iss	sez	steh	ster	weh	wuh	yeh	yuh
h	s	ses, zes	st	str	w	w	y	y
zez, etc.			zd

WRITE TEN TIMES.

Hicks' success dazed Hester. Wait-a-week and-you-will hear Yatesyell.

79. Sez never represents double s. It represents a syllable like sez or ses, zes or zez, and sometimes, sis, sus, zaus, etc.

faces recess noises possess emphasis system suspire

80. When desired, a vowel may be placed within sez.

Ex. exhaust, season, emphasize.

81. Like iss, any brief sign at the beginning of an outline is read before everything else. Ex. sit, stage, wink. When at the end of an outline, the brief sign is read after everything else. Ex. cases, didst.

82. Iss may be combined with any of the brief signs.

Ex. possesses, vests, roasters, sweat.

83. Words beginning with wh are pronounced as if spelled hw. Ex. wet, (hwet) whet. Reporters generally omit the h in whip, wheat, and similar words.

( b x - ) k b- \ b-x f l o g x

That boaster boasts he-had-the best toaster to toast. Wade raised his wages.

Webster weeded the roses for his sick wife. Dexter is too young to wed.

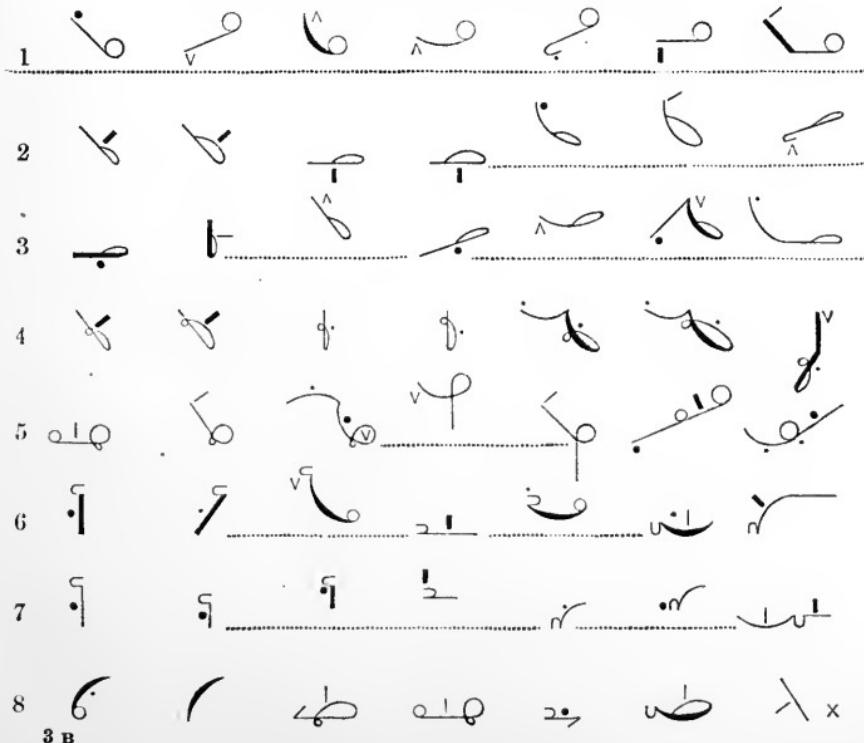

He suspects it is Rochester's system. Yale said Yeddo is Yodo's home.

Is it necessary to resist his successes? Dix fixed six of Dick's boxes.

He swept the sidewalk for the Swede. Whip, whet, whit, whiff, whey

EXERCISE 7.

Read, copy, and read from notes.

84. It is very important that iss, sez, steh and ster should be made with a motion contrary to that of the hands of a clock.

85. Make iss as small as possible and yet be distinct. Make sez round and much larger than iss.

86. Make steh as narrow as possible, and about half the length of the stroke. Make ster two-thirds as long as the stroke. Make steh, ster, sez and iss as unlike as possible. Practice b b b b until you can make the circles and loops exactly right and yet keep each stroke straight from beginning to end. Make the stroke quickly, then finish the circle or loop with care.

87. Weh, wuh, yeh and huh are elongated semicircles. Make them very small, so that they cannot be mistaken for half lengths. Use the semicircle which is easier, provided it makes a distinct angle with the following stroke.

WRITING EXERCISE.

Vases, vest, invests, investor, investors, raised, roasts, roaster, roasters, just, jests, jesters, rests, chests, heal, hump, noise, noises, noised, Nestor, fist, fists, revised, fosters, kiss, kisses, kissed, roster, huckster, hucksters, test, tester, tests, testers, dazed, mixed, rejoiced, sickness, incense, suppose, supposes, supposed, suffice, suffices, sufficed, bust, locusts, honest, rocks, fox, foxes, boxed, wrist, text, texts, debased, insist, insisted, incessant, opposes, successive, resists, emphasizes, excessive, web, wake, weighed, waded, wives, withes, wig, weeks, walks, wing, wink, wings, winks, witness, witnesses, witnessed, yelp, yawl, yelk, yon, yen, youngster, youngsters.

88. Weh is prefixed to four strokes, Lay, M, N and Ray, without an angle, thus:  Ex.     When these strokes have this w-hook, they are called weL, weM, weN and weR, the e representing any vowel that may intervene.

89. WeL, weM, weN, and weR may also be used for whel, whem, when and wher.

wheel	while	whim	whine	where	whereby

90. Iss (made like a tiny loop) may be written within the w-hook.

Ex. swear, swine.

Well, he wore one where-he worked Wednesday. While here will-you fix my wheel? Will waked up to see Waldo walk. Where will Welch go?

Where is-the whale? It is worth while to see one. Does his whim vex you?

WRITING EXERCISE.

While, weal, wall, war, whim, wine, ween, win, wire, wired, weary, ween, one, won, wane, whine, wear, where, wore, worse, worst, worth, work, word, wealth, whale, no-one, whereby, Edwin, window, words.

WORDSIGNS, UNVOCALIZED OUTLINES, AND PHRASES.

we	were	first	next	received	& Co.

With

Write sentences and letter twenty times.

Were you with him? We know you were with him two weeks.

BUSINESS LETTER.

The image shows three rows of handwritten cursive script. The first row contains a large circle with a dot, a vertical line with a dot, a small circle, and a large 'L' shape with a dot. The second row features a large 'C' shape with a dot, a small circle, a vertical line with a dot, and a large 'T' shape with a dot. The third row includes a large 'X' shape with a dot, a small circle, a vertical line with a dot, and a large 'F' shape with a dot.

Walsh, Yates, Hall & Co.,
Waco, Texas.

Your wire of Feb. 27 received, and the Yale wheel which you chose was sent to you on Wednesday. I think you may expect it by the first of next week.

Yours-truly,
Webster Worth.

QUESTIONS. 1. Give the names of the circles, the loops and the semicircles. 2. Does sez represent double s? What does it represent? 3. If a brief sign begins an outline, when is it read? 4. If a brief sign ends an outline, when is it read? 5. What may be combined with any other brief sign? 6. In whip and other words beginning with wh, which consonant sound comes first? 7. With what motion should the circles and loops be made? 8. How should iss and sez be made? 9. What is said of the width and length of steh? 10. What should be the length of ster? 11. What is said of weh, wuh, yeh and yuh? 12. With what four strokes is weh combined without an angle? 13. Name the four w-hooked strokes. 14. Write weL, whel, weM, whem, weN, etc. 15. How is iss made when written within the w-hook?

LESSON 6.

THIRD-PLACE VOWELS.

91. Third-place vowels are those written by the end of a stroke.

92. A heavy dot by the end of a stroke represents ä, as heard in arm or father. Ex. palm, ha, arm.

93. A third-place heavy dash represents the sound of öö, as heard in ooze, move. rude.

94. Un represents the sound of u or ew heard in hues or pews. When convenient, U may be joined to a stroke. Ex. due, mew, suit.

95. If the vowel in a word is third-place, the outline is written in third position, under or through the line of writing: Horizontals and half lengths under the line, as in noose, loot. Other strokes, through the line. Ex. bark, loom.

Pa moved-the lute. Archie fed-the poor mule. Art used-the spool.

EXERCISE 8.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

1.

2.

3.

4.

96. A third-place light dot represents ā, as heard in add, āwax.

97. A third-place light dash represents the sound of oo, as heard in oo look, oo put.

98. Ow <sup>A</sup> represents the sound of ow or ou, as heard in ow owl, ou our.

99. When convenient, Ow may be joined to a stroke.
Ex. o thou. In the wordsign ow now, Ow is joined without an angle.

Pat took-the cow. Al put up our caps. Fannie wound-the wool.

EXERCISE 9.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

RESUME.

Ah

Oo

ă

oo

Ow

U

Archie

Moody

sang,

Look

out

Hugh.

100. Memorize the third-place vowel sentence, "Archie Moody sang, Look out Hugh," so that you will never forget it. Write it in shorthand many times.

101. Read and write the following sentences as in previous lessons:

Ma was soon calm. Poor Aunt Martha sadly took-the vow anew. He had moved-the shack to-the far side (of the) farm. Ruth took two sacks of-them to-the house. Pat laughed loudly as-he put on-his new boots.

Jack was badly duped. Anne heard-the sad news of-his abuse Tuesday.

EXERCISE 10.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

1.

2.

3.

4.

5.

102. Third-place vowels between two strokes are always written by the second stroke, before it, in the same order as in the longhand word.

103. CAUTION 1. Remember that dash vowels are always written slanting by slanting strokes (at right angles to the stroke); never slanting by other strokes.

104. CAUTION 2. Be careful to write third-place vowels by the top of up strokes, Ray, Hay, and Lay.

WRITING EXERCISE.

At, out, pooh, Zoo, eow, cue, art, heart, aunt, aunts, ants, woo, bow, bowed, vowed, feud, mute, back, backs, pouch, soon, paths, pull, due, south, soothe, owl, cowl, bush, rout, rang, root, rag, lack, lacks, lax, pack, tacks, tax, taxes, taxed, wax, waxes, fast, faster, vast, vaster, fasts, casts, castors, hack, hacked, put, puts, doubts, gnats, jute, hoot, wound, rouge, used, vamp, wool, wood, pastors, soot, Sue.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

— / (Up) \ .
 given wish to-be may-be gentlemen should any now what would when should-be we-will we-are we'll we're

Speed sentences:

Now, gentlemen, your wish to-be given notice of any meeting may-be and should-be respected. We-will-do what you would wish. We-are on time. When are-you going?

105. Write the following letter, reading it each time you write it, until you can write it correctly in three minutes.

BUSINESS LETTER.

Dennis Bassett & Sons,
Rosebud, S. D.

Gentlemen :

I have yours (of the) 8th, and note that you are soon to be in-the-market for heating apparatus. I mail you my catalog, giving several boiler designs, and you may write me any time for data not given in-the catalog.

Now, my new "Rosebud" boiler is cheap, but will give good service if the boiler-and pipes are put in as they should-be.

Awaiting your answer, I-am-

Yours-truly,

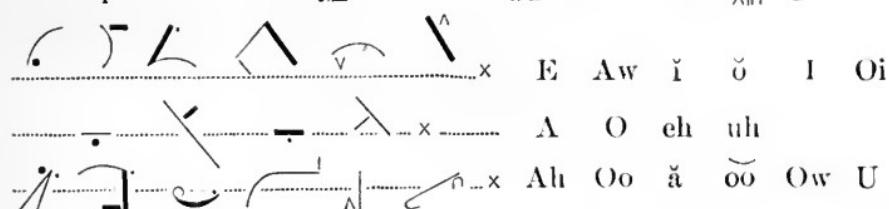

QUESTIONS: 1. By which part of a stroke is a third-place vowel written? 2. What strokes are written under the line when in third position? 3. What strokes are written through the line when in third position? 4. What is represented by a third-place heavy dot? By a third-place light dot? By a third-place heavy dash? By a third-place light dash? 5. What is represented by Ow? By U? 6. What vowel signs may be joined to a stroke? 7. Give the sentence containing the third-place vowel sounds in their order. 8. Name the third-place vowel sounds forwards and then backwards. 9. Name the vowel sounds in the following order: The third-place light dot, the third-place heavy dot, the third-place heavy dash, the third-place light dash. 10. When a third-place vowel comes between two strokes, is it written by the first or by the second stroke? Before or after it? 11. What strokes take third-place vowels at the top of the stroke? 12. How are dash vowels written by a stroke? 13. Name the first-place vowels. The second-place vowels. The third-place vowels. 14. Name the first, second, and third-place heavy dots. The first, second, and third-place light dots. 15. Name the first, second; and third-place heavy dashes. The first, second, and third-place light dashes. 16. Write the diphthongs I, Oi, Ow, U. 17. Write the wordsigns: To-be, may-be, now, any, gentlemen, should, wish, give, given.

LESSON 7.

REVIEW AND ADDITIONAL POINTS.

VOWELS.

	Long	Short	Diphthongs
First-place:	E  Aw	i  ö	I  Oi
Second-place:	A  O	eh  uh
Third-place:	Ah  Oo	ă  oo	Ow  U

106. Repeat each sentence, then give the vowel sounds; thus, Lee saw Jim rob my boy — E Aw i ö I Oi.

107. Memorize these sentences and vowel sounds so well that you can rapidly name from memory all the vowel sounds in the order given in the sentences.

108. Think of the diagram above and name the sounds represented by the heavy dots (E, A, Ah); by the light dots; the heavy dashes; the light dashes; the diphthongs. Spend two minutes each day during your entire course, reviewing the vowels with an unlettered diagram, naming them in order and skipping about.

109. When convenient, I, Oi, Ow, and U may be joined to the stroke.

110. RULE 1. When between two strokes, A, O, and all first-place vowels are written by the first stroke; eh, uh, and all third-place vowels are written by the second stroke.

111. This rule does not apply when a vowel comes between a stroke and a brief sign, but only when it comes between two strokes. Thus, in fasten, ā does not come between two strokes, but between F and iss. It cannot be placed by iss, and therefore must be written by F.

112. Strokes have three positions, corresponding with the three vowel places:

First position — A stroke above the line of writing for horizontals; half a stroke above for other strokes. On double-lined paper, place first-position horizontals and half-lengths under the upper line, touching it; other strokes, through the upper line, half above and half below it.

Second position — On the line of writing.

Third position — Under the line of writing for horizontals and half lengths; for other strokes, through the line, half above and half below it.

113. It is always the first down or the first up stroke in an outline that is put in position. If there is no down or up stroke, then the horizontals are put in position.

114. The object of position is to enable the writer to indicate vowels without writing them, thus saving his time and increasing his speed; but unless he is perfectly familiar with the vowels, he cannot quickly place words in proper position. Certain conflicting words should always be vocalized; as, same, to distinguish it from some, which has the same outline and the same position. Initial vowels generally help most in reading words, and should be freely used.

115. The very fact that vowels are generally omitted, makes it all the more necessary that they should be made as familiar as the multiplication table, in order that when needed they may be inserted very quickly. Three classes of words — conflicting words, proper names and unusual words — should generally be vocalized. No one need expect much success as a shorthand writer who has not perfectly mastered the vowels. A word which is always vocalized need not be put in position.

116. A derivative is usually written in the position of its primitive. Ex. calm, calmly.

117. Except derivatives, words of many consonants are generally written without position, i. e., on the line, the same as second position. For instance, almost all outlines of three or more strokes, and many outlines consisting of a brief sign and only two strokes, can be written without position, because the consonant outline is such a plain picture of the word that it can be instantly read without the aid of vowels or position.

118. Put all short outlines in position except those given without position in the reading exercises. Remember it is the distinguishing vowel of a word (generally it is the accented vowel, sometimes the first vowel,) which determines the position of its outline.

/	o	○	ø	ø	u	n	c	ɔ	č	œ	œ	œ	✓
heh	iss	sez	steh	ster	yeh, yuh	weh, wuh	weL	weM	weN	weR
h	s	zez	st	str	y	w	wl	wm	wu	wr
etc.	zd						whl	whm	whn	whr

119. A brief sign at the beginning of an outline is read before everything else. Iss may be combined with any other brief sign. Ex. ſ sweat, ɔ swear, œ he-has swooned.

120. A brief sign at the end of an outline is read after everything else; hence, after the t or d indicated by halving. Ex. b debts, œ cents.

121. When joined to a curve, or when between two straight strokes forming an angle, circles are written in the easiest way, whether the motion is like or unlike that of the hands of a clock. Therefore—

122. RULE 2. Circles are written on the inside of a curve, but on the outside of the angle between two straight strokes.

123. RULE 3. Loops are also written on the inside of a curve, but between strokes they are generally joined to the first stroke, the same as if there were no other stroke. A loop is never formed by the crossing of two strokes as the circles are.

124. RULE 4. In all other cases, write iss, sez, steh, and ster, with a motion contrary to that of the hands of a clock.

Sam sent some saucers to Mrs. Mason. Jessup put-the exercises in-the desk.

125. Iss represents initial s, but not initial z. In zeal and other words beginning with z, use the stroke Z.

126. Sez does not represent double s. Sez represents a syllable like sez or ses, zez or zes, sis, zaus, size, etc.

Ex. exhausted, scissors, Cicero.

127. Steh represents st or zd; but if the word ends in ts or dz, halve for t or d and add iss. Ex. missed, mitts.

Write: Lights, lost, lots, buds, buzzed, beast, beats, fates, faeed, amazed, mates, lets, lest, beads, least, nets, nest, beds, best, dazed, dates, knots, sneezed, fist, fights, refused, refutes, debased, debates, vest, voiced, revised, rebates, zest, mast, mats, loots, loosed, routs, roused.

128. Students who have trouble in distinguishing between third-place Ah and first-place o may follow the letter in the longhand word. If the letter is o, use the first-place light dash; if the letter is a, use Ah, except in a few words where wa has the sound of wo or where ya has the sound of yo, as in swap, want, wan, watch, yacht.

129. Make sez large and round, ster long, steh as narrow as you can, and the other brief signs as small as possible except that the sides of the semicircles are elongated to make them look like tiny arches and less like half lengths.

130. Make the w hook very small—the hook line close to the stroke and straight, horizontal in weM and weN, slanting in weL and weR. With all other strokes, the semicircle must make a distinct angle.

131. Make all ticks as short as possible and yet be distinct.

EXERCISE 11.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

WRITING EXERCISE

Dime, dome, doom, shock, shucks, shook, chips, chaps, picks, packs, backs, box, tile, vim, wreaths, lath, hitch, huge, limp, lamp, lamb, lightly, little, sheep, king, gong, imp, moths, couch, Molly, move, thatch, luck, looks, tucks, took, pug, pulled, buck, bush, foot, fudge, five, Tom, zeal, zealous, escape, berates, invites, delayed, copied, enjoyed, acted, mirage, ours, wide, weighed, unweighed, yacht, wad, watch, watched, yelped, yeld, yielded, wild, walled, wooly, while, wheels, wired, bewitch, bewitched, switched, swift, west, waists, wind, whereat, nowhere, whines, swooped, swelled, swims, wounds, styles, stores, stamps, fasts, faster, pastors, task, besieged, despot, discuss, Chesapeake, accessory.

Write without position: Alabama, Texas, Minnesota, Nevada, Mississippi, Mexico, also, always, picnic, apologizes, emphasized, chimney, theology, zoology, monopoly, monotony, notoriety, zinc, zenith, ambiguity, indemnify, damages.

BUSINESS LETTER.

Messrs. Wood, Stark & Co.,

Minneapolis, Minn.

Gentlemen:

Have you decided to sell your warehouse as you suggested sometime since? Willis Yoakum, a young fellow of honesty and wealth, desires to buy it. He is in the South for a few weeks, but he has written that he expects to visit our city in August, and if you so desire, I will see him at that time and will no doubt succeed in the disposal of your warehouse in a way that will suit you. Write soon and let me know if I shall negotiate the sale (of the) warehouse.

Yours,

Augustus Wolf.

QUESTIONS: 1. Name the first-place vowels. The second-place. The third-place. 2. Give the sounds represented by the heavy dots. By the light dots. By the heavy dashes. By the light dashes. 3. When between two strokes, which vowels are placed by the first stroke? Which by the second stroke? 4. By which consonant is the vowel placed in dusk? 5. Give the three positions for a horizontal stroke; for a down or up stroke when full length; when half length. 6. Which stroke in an outline is put in position? 7. What is the object of position? 8. What words should always be vocalized? 9. What two other classes of words are usually vocalized? 10. How familiar should the vowels be, and why? 11. What is said of the position of derivative words? 12. What words are generally written without position, and why? How many strokes are there in such words? 13. When is a brief sign read? 14. Give the rules for the circles and loops. 15. How is initial z represented? 16. What is represented by sez? By steh? 17. How are final ts and dz represented? 18. What is said of the size and shape of the circles, loops, semicircles, and ticks? 19. What is said of initial vowels in Par. 114?

LESSON 8.

PHRASING, WORDSIGNS AND SPECIAL POINTS.

132. This lesson completes what may be considered the first half of the theory of shorthand. The greater portion of the foundation principles is found in these eight lessons. They must be kept in constant remembrance, and practiced until they become as familiar as one's a-b-e's. Nothing must be forgotten, but everything must be reviewed in one way or another each day until it is as natural and easy to write shorthand as to write longhand.

133. RULE 5. The first word of a phrase is written in its usual position, and the other words in a phrase follow without regard to position. Ex.  I-will-do,  by-that-time.

Exception 1. He, a, an, or and always takes the position of the word to which it is joined. Ex.  and-if,  a-few he-was,  he-may.

Exception 2. A first-position word, especially if represented by a brief sign, may be somewhat raised or lowered in order to place the second word of a phrase also in its usual position. Ex.  we-did,  we-had. The first word is still in first position, only not at its usual height above the line.

134. In phrasing, you may be represented by yeh whenever yuh does not make a good joining. Iss may represent us as well as is or his, as or has. Emp may be used for may-be.

 They know-you. Let-us-know. He-may-be here tomorrow.

135. In phrasing, the pronoun I is generally represented by one-half of the sign for I, Poid or Roid. The downward tick, Poid, makes the better joining with the up strokes, while the upward tick, Roid, makes the better joining with the down strokes. Ex.  I-will,  I-do. Before a few strokes, like S and Z, the full form of I should be used for the sake of legibility. Ex.  I-was.

136. In order to distinguish between conflicting words, like sent and send, ld, md, nd, and rd are sometimes represented by the shaded half lengths,  Eld,  Med,  Ned, and  Ard. There is no danger of misreading these half lengths, because Yay, Emp, Ing, and Way, the strokes that resemble them, are seldom or never halved.

137. Eld is written down, because it is difficult to write a shaded stroke up.

Old, send, maid, and hard must always be shaded in order to distinguish them from late, sent, mate, and heart.

Is it a-late notice or-an old notice? I sent-you. I send-you.

He-may-be late. The old mate is wealthy and-the maid is worthy.

138. Eld, Med, Ned, and Ard can never be used with a hook; hence, care must be taken to make weLd, weMd, and weNd always light.

139. When studying the wordsigns in this lesson, observe that the vowel Aw is written in three directions to represent three words beginning with the sound of aw — all, already, ought. The first-place light dash representing o is written in three directions to denote of, or, and on. Since these ticks are written in first position and in the directions of B, D, J, P, T, and Ray, they may be called respectively Boid<sup>1</sup> (Boid-one),

Doid<sup>1</sup>, Joid<sup>1</sup>, Poid<sup>1</sup>, Toid<sup>1</sup>, and Roid<sup>1</sup>. Who is Joid<sup>2</sup>; should is Roid<sup>2</sup>.

140. The wordsigns for the, a, an, and and given below, can be used when the ticks would not make a good joining, or when safer than the ticks.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

all already ought of or on should who the a and whom an opportunity party common come together ago had much thank-ed though those we-were what-would we-will we-are advertise thousand -ed-ment

Speed sentences:

All of-the boys ought-to-be already on-the-way to-the store or to-the office. We-were happy to give-you what we-had. We-will work together for-the common weal. What-would you do with-the switch? Though we-were sick last week, we-are now well. When would they come? Thus-the opportunity is-a good one. We-will thank them for-the thousand dollars given-us. Who-should go but Mrs.

Boyd and her two sons? Were you with-the party that came an-hour-ago? Those advertisements are doing much good. A common hope.

EXERCISE 12.

KEY TO EXERCISE 12.

1. You-may, you-may-go, you-may-have, you-may-do, you-may-have-seen, you-may-be, you-may-be-sorry. 2. He-may-have, he-may-be, he-will-do, he-will-have, he-was, he-said, he-supposed. 3. I-have, I-do, I-think, I-will, I-will-do, I-will-think, I-may-be-sorry. 4. We-have, we-think, we-do, we-had, we-did, we-think-you-will-be, we-think-you-will-have. 5. We-will, we-will-do, we-will-be-ready, we-will-have, we-are-having, we-are-certain, we-are-respectfully-yours. 6. I-will-send-you, he-will-send-you, he-will-send-us, you-will-send-us, you-may-be-certain, he-may-be-ready, I-may-be-ready. 7. Let-us-know, let-us-have, let-us-do, make-us, give-us, when-you-think-you-will, when-you-have-time.

BUSINESS LETTERS.

Mrs. M. J. Stillwell,
Jackson, Miss.

Madam:

Are-you-the party who-came to see-us last Wednesday about a-six-room house? All of our force were already off at one on-that-day, except one or two boys who stayed to sweep up, and-they did not seem to know just what you desired.

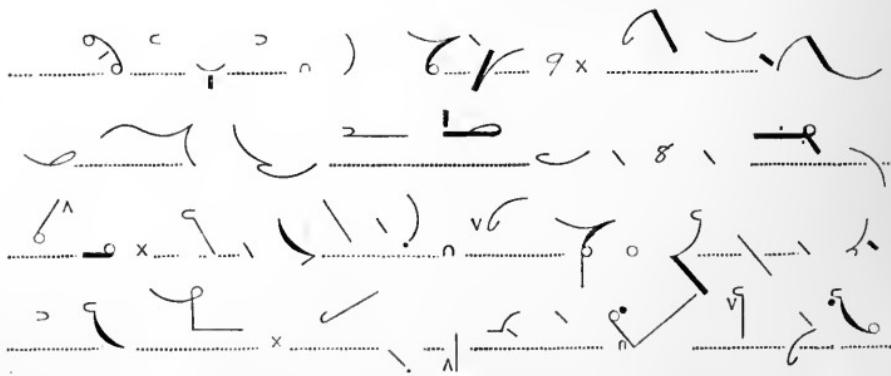

We-have four six room cottages at our disposal, all new-and on good lots. We-think we-ought to suit-you with one of-them.

If-you-will come to-the office some day next week, we-will go together and-look at-the houses. I would-be happy to show them to-you at-an earlier date, but I-expect to-be out (of the) city for-the-rest (of the) week, so must ask-you to wait for me.

We-shall advertise these houses for sale soon. A-smaller cottage was sold by-us a-few-days ago, and-it-is much admired by all-that see it.

We-hope-you-will come and-look at-the house.

Yours-respectfully,

A large, handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "M. J. Stillwell". The signature is written over several lines of horizontal dotted lines, typical of a cursive handwriting practice sheet.

{ — p x 6

Sirs:

We note what you say in-yours of July 9. We-will-be in Albany next month for-one week, August 1-8, to exhibit our choice goods. We-hope to have-the opportunity of seeing you while in-your-city, as we-shall-be happy to show-you what we-have in-stock.

We-are putting out a-lot of superior white wool weaves that-we-think may suit-you.

Yours-truly,

QUESTIONS: 1. Which word in a phrase is generally written in its usual position? 2. For what purpose may a first-position word be raised or lowered? 3. What words always take the position of the words to which they are joined? 4. In what two ways may you be represented in phrasing? 5. What may be represented by iss? By Emp? 6. When should Poid be used for I? When Roid? In what other way may I be represented, and when? 7. When may Eld, Med, Ned and Ard be used? 8. When is it wrong to use them? 9. What is the direction of Eld? 10. In what two ways may the be represented? A or an? And? 11. What wordsigns are represented by the following: Boid<sup>1</sup>, Poid<sup>1</sup>, Doid<sup>1</sup>, Toid<sup>1</sup>, Joid<sup>1</sup>, Roid<sup>1</sup>, Roid<sup>2</sup>, Joid<sup>2</sup>, P<sup>3</sup>, P<sup>1</sup>, Ith<sup>3</sup>, The<sup>3</sup>, Chay<sup>3</sup> D<sup>3</sup>, Gay<sup>3</sup>, Gay<sup>2</sup>, Thees<sup>3</sup>? 12. Can you also give the words represented by Boid<sup>2</sup>, Poid<sup>2</sup>, Doid<sup>2</sup>, Toid<sup>2</sup>?

LESSON 9.

Small Final Hooks on Straight Strokes.

Ten  Tef or Tev
 Tents  Tens  Tefs  Tefts

141. Straight strokes have two small final hooks, the f or v hook written on the circle side, and the n hook on the opposite side. Ex.  deaf,  den.

142. Iss may be written within the f or v hook. Ex.  puff,  puffs.

143. Iss may be written in place of the n hook on straight strokes. Ex.  pan,  pans.

Read and copy.

Pef	Bef	Tef	Def	Chef	Jef	Kef	Gef	Hef	Ref

Pefts	Befs	Tefs	Defs	Chefs	Jefs	Kefs	Gefs	Hefs	Refs

Peft	Beft	Teft	Deft	Cheft	Jeft	Keft	Geft	Heft	Reft

Pefts	Befts	Tefts	Defts	Chefts	Jefts	Kefts	Gefts	Hefts	Refts

Pen	Ben	Ten	Den	Chen	Jen	Ken	Gen	Hen	Ren

Pens	Bens	Tens	Dens	Chens	Jens	Kens	Gens	Hens	Rens

Pent	Bent	Tent	Dent	Chent	Jent	Kent	Gent	Hent	Rent

Pents	Bents	Tents	Dents	Chents	Jents	Kents	Gents	Hents	Rents

144. The e in the foregoing names represents any vowel that may come between the stroke and its hook. Pen, with a change of vowel, may represent pan, pin, pun, pine, pawn or pain.

145. Make each hook very small, and the hook line straight, pointing out rather than in; otherwise, when rapidly written the hook may be mistaken for iss. When iss is written within the hook, it is not round but long, ending in a straight line which divides the hook into two nearly equal parts.

146. Practice the shorthand lines on p. 58 three times, naming each hooked stroke as you write it. Make each stroke with a quick, precise movement; then, without lifting the pen, make the hook carefully and on the proper side of the stroke.

Dave gave-the chief river in Spain. Cover-the beehives with-the stuff.

The sudden pain sent Henry running to-the dentist. David Stone has gone to-the pine woods of-Michigan. John doffs his cuffs and serves.

147. Write the foregoing sentences ten times each. Observe that in writing the word beehives, it is necessary to partly retrace B in order to show the hook on Hay. Omitting the vowels, except in proper names, write the sentences ten times again. Continue practicing them until you can write them correctly and easily at the rate of forty words per minute. But if you try to write rapidly without sufficient practice, you will make mistakes and will have to write slower than ever in order to correct your tendency to error. Trying to write faster than you can write perfectly will only hinder you and retard your progress. NEVER ALLOW YOURSELF TO PLACE A SINGLE HOOK ON THE WRONG SIDE OF A STROKE. That is a most serious error in shorthand. Carelessness in placing the hooks, circles or loops will lead to no end of trouble.

EXERCISE 13.

Read, transcribe, and write from transcript.

1.

2.

3.

4.

5.

6.

7.

8.

9.

148. Except in the middle of a word, iss, sez, steh or ster may be written in place of the n hook on straight strokes to indicate us, nsez, nst or nster.

dancee dances tenses, pounced punsters ransack Wisconsin

 Mrs. Jones sent-the coins to Kansas. The-chances are against-his ransom. He chanced to hear-the spinsters' responses. He warns-the punsters (of-the) dunce's density. The gown enhances Jane's beauty.

149. Write the foregoing sentence's ten times. Then practice the writing exercise. You can write it the first time and every time without once putting a hook on the wrong side of a stroke. Do so. Practice it until it is easy to place the hooks correctly. Write it seven times without error.

WRITING EXERCISES.

Pave, paved, pain, pained, buff, paint, paints, bun, buns, doff, doffed, done, dunned, dunces, dove, doves, pine, pines, cove, caves, caved, chafe, chafes, chain, chains, chained, chaff, run, runs, rough, den, dens, huff, tough, hove, teh, tense, tenses, Jones, achieve, achieves, achieved, Jeff, Dane, dived, roof, roofs, rain, rains, rained, gave, rove, roves, roved, ran, rinse, rinsed, rinses, reigns, reigned, skein, skeins, hen, hens, heave, heaved, spine, half, halves, pan, pans, panned, referee, ripen, ripens, ripened, staff, staves, river, Henry, spun, stone, stones, stoned, sudden, mechanic, dentists, banish, divide, defense, penance, tanned, toned, gifts, taunts, dents, daunts, coughs, pants, calves, bounds, skiff, rinds, bereft, pints, pounds, coins, sustained, suspends, swerves.

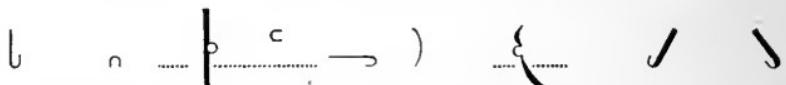

150. A dot at the beginning of a stroke, and in line with it, indicates con, conn, com, or comm. Ex.  commenced.
J contained,

WORDSIGNS.

opinion upon happen been can general-ly differ-ed before whatever (verb) -ence-ent-ly

SPEED SENTENCES CONTAINING WORDSIGNS.

Whatever you decide, we can say that-we-have generally been slow about contesting points with you. They have differed with you before. Our opinions upon this point happen to-be different.

151. When Co. cannot be conveniently joined, it may be represented by K written across the preceding stroke.

Ex.  Oil Co.

152. Of, as well as of-the, may be omitted before dates, and indicated by writing the following word close to the word preceding of. Ex.  Yours of June 16.

153. When convenient, of may be represented by the f hook. Ex.  stock-of,  rate-of,  out-of.

154. Write the following letter ten times, omitting the vowels except in oil, Reeves, and Dunn:

BUSINESS LETTER.

Kansas Paint-& Oil Co.,
Kansas-City,-Mo.

Sirs :

Yours (of) June 10 has-just come to (h)and, and-in-answer will-say that-we-have-a good stock-of paints, mixed ready for use, put up in tin cans of different sizes. The smallest on sale contain one pint, though we-have sample cans that-we can send-you that contain still less. Whatever you-may need in-the-way of paints this season, we-shall-be happy to-send-you.

We-will give-you-the usual discounts for spot cash or we-will-send on sixty days' time, as you wish.

Hoping that you will send to us for sample paints before buying, we are-

Yours truly,

Reeves & Dunn.

155. Notice that in writing the derivative word sixty, six is written in its usual position and T is added.

QUESTIONS: 1. What small final hooks may be placed on straight strokes? 2. Which hook is written on the circle side? 3. Which hook is written on the opposite side? 4. How is iss combined with each of these hooks? 5. Write and name the ten hooked strokes, Pef, Bef, etc. 6. Write and name the same strokes with iss added. 7. Write and name Peft, Beft, etc. 8. Write and name Pefts, Befts, etc. 9. Write and name the ten strokes with the n hook. Write and name those ending in ns. Those ending in nt. Those ending in nts. 10. What does e in the names signify? 11. How should each hook be made? 12. How is iss made when written within the hook? 13. Write beehives, and state the peculiarity in its formation. 14. What should you never allow yourself to do? 15. What is said of this error? 16. What may be written in place of the n hook, and when? 17. What is indicated by these four? 18. What may be used to represent Co.? 19. Give the different ways of indicating of. 20. How may con or conn, com or comm be represented?

LESSON 10.

N HOOK ON CURVES.

156. Curves take the final n hook, but not the f or v hook.

157. Iss may be written within the n hook on curves, but never in place of it. Ex. vmine, vmines. v is mice, not mines. Sez, steh, and ster cannot be combined with the n hook on curves.

WRITE FIVE TIMES.

Fen Fens Fent Fents Len Lens Lent Lents Men Mens Ment, etc. Women of renown. The moon shines upon-the ocean's billows. He finds excellent lines.

EXERCISE 14.

Read, copy, and read from your notes.

158. In the exercise below, use either the stroke or the dot for -ing, as is most convenient. Remember also that Eld, Med, Ned and Ard are never used with a hook. Use Let, Met, Net and Art with a hook.

WRITING EXERCISE.

Mine, mines, mind, minds, fun, noun, nouns, vine, vines, oven, ovens, lean, leans, leaned, thin, thinned, thins, shun, shuns, shunned, mean; means, meaning, shunning, leaning, fan, fans, fanned, fanning, fence, fences (F-N sez), lenses, lances, minces, lawn, lawns, shine, shines, line, lines, lined, lining, lint, mend, mends, mending, faint, faints, fainting, vent, find, finds, finding, found, founds, founding, thence, mint, mints, mound, mounds, nun, nuns, loan, loans, loaned, loaning, shown, nine, seven, ocean, oceans, slain, lent, fountain, lonely, finance, finances, soften, softens, softened, summon, summoned, summoning, softening, anoints.

159. A light slanting tick struck in any direction may be used to indicate -ed. The following outlines indicate the different methods of writing past tenses. Use that form which is easiest for you to write, provided it is also easy to read. When Ted or Ded would not join well, it may be lapped by the preceding stroke, as in deeded.

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

exercise-d

note-d cr or possess-ed

gift-ed or or

160. To may be indicated by writing the word following it in the fourth position, i. e., entirely under the line. M below the line may be used for to-me or to-my; never for to-him. Usually it is a second-position word having a full-length down stroke that is written in the fourth position.

To-have to-take to-this to-say to-ask to-do to-me to-him today to-my

He-wrote to me of my reference to him, in which I spoke of him as unkind to my son.

WORDSIGNS.

thing long language quite could after future advantage large how fact

WORDS DISTINGUISHED BY POSITION.

keep, copy, inch, notch, book, back, amount, mount, account, count

Speed Sentences:

Have-you seen anything like this before? How-long have-you been keeping it?

We could pay-you something soon after-the 1st. The fact is, his language was quite bad. The advantage is to-be largely in-the future. Put-the thing

Y (7) r x b r -> y c r -> x an-inch (a-notch) higher. Does your count tally with my account?

You-will-find-the catalog in-the back (not book). If expenses mount much higher, they will amount to half of our receipts.

5 (5) 1 9

BUSINESS LETTER.

William Kaufmann, Leavenworth, Kans.
Sir:

Yours of June 13 received and-duly noted. We confess that-we read your note a-second-time before its meaning dawned upon-us.

So-you desire to-loan money, but at exorbitant rates. Allow-us to-say that-the state of our finances does-not demand that-we obtain loans by paying usury.

We cannot commend your views. We can not consent to any such arrangement as-you suggest. The chief point in-your argument is based upon-an error. We-do-not (dictated don't) wish your services. We-do-not intend to change our policy of doing business honestly.

Yours truly,

David Sloan & Co.

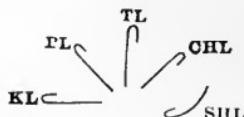

QUESTIONS. What small final hook may be added to curves? 2. What cannot be added to curves? 3. How is iss combined with the n hook on curves? 4. Can iss, sez, steh or ster be written in place of the n hook on curves? 5. Should the stroke be made light or heavy in loaned, mind and earned? Why? 6. What is the -ed tick? 7. What is indicated by fourth position? 8. Where is fourth position? 9. Write to-him and to-me. 10. Write the wordsigns for the following words: Quite, long, could, language, large, future, thing, after, advantage, fact, how. 11. Of the words distinguished by position, which are written in the second position? 12. Make the marks of parenthesis in shorthand.

LESSON 11.

THE SMALL L HOOK.

Left hand L hook

160. Certain consonants combine so closely with the sound of l that the two consonants together really form but one sound, spoken with but one impulse of the vocal organs. Thus, in play the two consonants form the one sound pl, pronounced like the last syllable of apple. Give this sound. Give the combined sound of bl as heard in able, the combined sound of fl as heard in fly or awful.

This union of l with the preceding consonant so as to form one sound with it, is indicated by a small initial l hook placed on the circle side of the following strokes :

Up

Pl	Bl	Tl	Dl	Chl	Jl	Kl	Gl	Fl	Vl	Thl	Phl	Shl	Zhl
sPl,	sBl,	etc.						sFl,	sVl,	etc.		sShl,	etc.

play able ugly oval flood plates settled social civil glacial

161. Always call these double consonants by their names, which are the same as the last syllables of apple, able, settle, saddle, Mitchel, vigil, fickle, haggle, awful, oval, Ethel, bushel, and usual. The triple consonants are pronounced sPl, as in gospel; iss-Bl; sTl, as in hostile; iss-Dl, etc.

162. Observe that Shl and Zhl are written up, to distinguish them from Shen and Zhen, which are written down.

163. Iss is made long and thin when written within the l hook, the same as when within the f or v hook. Take special pains to make iss long when combined with the l hook in the middle of words, in order that the hook may be quite plain.

164. It is often necessary to retrace the previous stroke in order to make the l hook. Ex. couple, ruffle.

EXERCISE 15.

Transcribe, write from transcript, and read notes.

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

WRITING EXERCISE.

Play, played, plow, plows, plowed, plots, plats, glee, gloss, blaze, blame, blades, blazed, bluster, blazes, cloy, cloyed, clue, cleats, clams, clap, clip, pluck, gloom, fling, flung, plump, clamp, baffle, shuffle, bleeds, floods, pleads, flats, floats, evils, bevel, level, rifles, juggle, knuckles, addle, saddle, sidle, sable, civility, supple, supplement, compliments, civilize, civilizes, cycle, sickly, tackle, pebble, stubble, angle, flip, flabby, exclaim, exclusive, gospel, fiscal, social, facial, racial, glacial, plane, planed, blind, blend, blends, flint, bland, splash, spleen, displace, displease, complain, clean, cleansed, cleanses, complained, complains, complaints, gleaned, glint, glints, initial, rashly, fleshly, splints, supplants.

WORDSIGNS

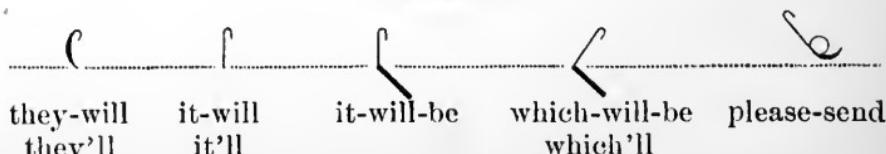

bill billed able-to balance feel full-y value build-t fill, fall

Speed Sentences :

PHRASES.

EXERCISE 16.

1. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
2. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
3. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
4. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
5. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
6. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
7. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
8. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
9. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
10. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.
11. A series of short, curved strokes forming a continuous line, ending with a vertical stroke and a small circle.

BUSINESS LETTERS.

Messrs. Mitchell-& Black,
Glenwood, Iowa.

Sirs:

Please-send me six bushels of-your best russet apples, a peck-of your choicest blue plums, and-a small sack-of flour. Cannot you send-the plums right-away? If so, you-will-oblige me.

Yours-truly,

Willis Blunt.

QUESTIONS. 1. What is indicated by the small l hook? 2. Write and name the l-hook series of double consonants. 3. What two are written up, and why? 4. How is iss written within the l hook? 5. Where is care especially needed in order that the l hook may be plain? 6. How is the l hook made in couple? 7. Write the following phrases: They-will, it-will, it-will-be, which-will-be, please-send. 8. Write and name the wordsigns for the following words: Balance, able-to, fill, value, build, fully, feel, bill, fall, billed.

LESSON 12.

ANGLE RULES AND WORDSIGN REVIEW.

165. The downward stroke El is sometimes used instead of Lay for the sake of a sharper angle or a more convenient joining.

166. RULE 6. Use El after N and Ing.

167. Copy the above line several times; then write the following:

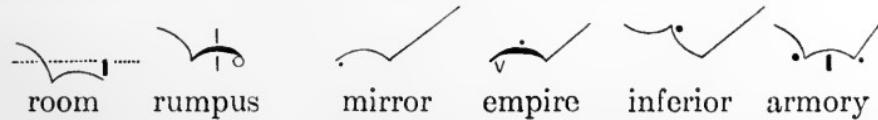

Null, wrongly, kneel, Nile, Nellie, inlay, inlet, inlaid, inland, knoll, neatly, newel, knell, unlimited, songless.

168. When Ish is impossible or inconvenient, an upward stroke, Shay, may be used for sh, as in vanish, sheathe, flesh.

Use Shay: Finish, dish, fish, flash, flesh, dishes, tissue, dash, bishop, Finnish, sheathes, fleshly, peevish.

169. Regardless of any vowel before or after r, use Ar before M and Emp, but Ray after M, Emp and Ray.

Write: Romp, rim, ram, rhyme, roam, reams, armory, mire, merit, mirrors, merge, March, empires, amperes, emperors, interior, superior, terror, carrier, barrier.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

believe year yet beyond without ever however issue explain ye immediate impossible importance improve-ed on-hand these-things

-ly impossibility important improvement

Speed sentences:

The importance (of the) improvement is quite evident. However, you-could-do without-it for-a year yet. When will-you issue-the bonds? Now it-is beyond-you. Is it impossible to build immediately?

Did-you ever fully explain-the immediate advantages of-this plan?

WORDSIGN REVIEW.

KEY.

Opportunity hope party by be to-be it at-out dollar do had-advertise-ed-ment each which much advantage large common come quite could give-n together ago good.

If for few after future-fact ever have however think thank-ed-thousand them-they though was wish shall-t issue usual-ly these this those several that without.

Him am important-ce improve-d-ment impossible-ility any-in now thing long language when your will allow are are.

First is-his as-has we-with were what would ye-year yet beyond you I-eye-high how he of to or but on should all too-two already-awe O-oh-owe ought who-m the a-an and.

Opinion upon happen been can general-ly before whatever differ-ed-ent-ly-ce bill billed-build-built able-to balance feel fill-fall full-y-fell value.

17

KEY.

You ought to improve this opportunity of advertising those goods. But is it impossible to build beyond-the city limits? However, you-will-have-them on-hand for several weeks. I-wish to-be notified immediately when anything important happens. Now, we-hope each party will give whatever is convenient. What-was-done with-the different bills before-the House?

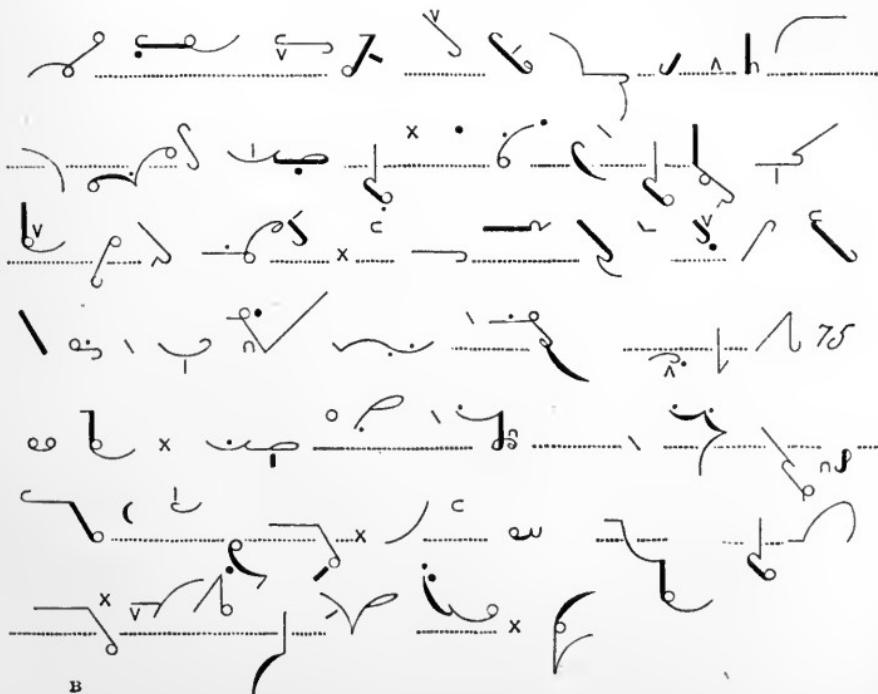

Such language was too common a-year or two ago. I-think-he-would-go if-you would invite him. The General's opinions upon that issue have already been given. Could you pay-the balance due on-this large bill? First, how-long-and how high will it all be? We-shall-do without these-things which cost so much.

Oh, work together for-your mutual advantage in-the future. Can you arrange for-the thousand-dollars you owe him? Were you able-to find out who were after-them?

What-would happen if-he-should ever know its value? He-feels that-the bag is already quite too full. Gentlemen, all-these changes affect our country—the whole kingdom.

170. Except in phrasing, a wordsign should never be written out of position. Practice each sentence until it is easy to write it correctly; then practice it until you can write it both correctly and rapidly. There are ten words in each sentence, sixty words in each group. Practice each group until you can write it correctly in a minute. Perhaps you can write some of the sentences correctly ten times in a minute, i. e., at the rate of 100 words per minute. It will pay you to spend two or three days on this lesson, for wordsigns are of little value unless written without conscious effort.

BUSINESS LETTER.

Messrs. Gleason, Kline & Jones,
Pine Bluffs, Ark.

Gentlemen:

How-do-you like our samples (of the) plain unglazed tablets? The selling value of tablets depends-upon-the cover design as-much-as upon-the excellence (of the) bond.

We can give-you-the benefit of-a binding which-will, we-believe, be second to none, and superior to-many of expensive mounting, at-the rate-of 75c. a-dozen.

Enclosed is list of inducements to individual pupils-and student clubs that want to-save-the coupons.

Shall we send-you a-few-dozen tablets, and-also coupons?

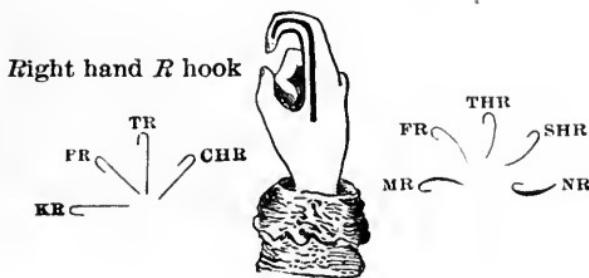

Kindly write-us at-your earliest convenience.

Yours truly,

QUESTION: 1. What is the name of the downward stroke for l? 2. After what strokes should El be used, and why? 3. What is the name of the upward stroke for sh? 4. When is it used instead of Ish? 5. Should Ar or Ray be used before M and Emp? 6. What is used for r after M and Emp? 7. After what other stroke should Ray be used, regardless of the vowel? 8. Observe the italicized words in the wordsign key, and note whether they are written regularly, or whether they are, like true wordsigns, exceptions in point of position or omission of consonant or vowel sounds. 9. Make the shorthand dash.

LESSON 13.

THE SMALL R HOOK.

171. The r hook, like the I hook, indicates that the two sounds represented by the stroke and its hook together form one sound, not two sounds. Thus in pray, the two consonants blend into the one sound, pr, pronounced like the last syllable of upper.

172. The double consonants of the r-hook series are as follows:

fresh freight every thresheres withered brazier rumor honored

173. Fr, Vr, Thr, and Tlh are formed by turning Fl, Vl, Thl, and Thl over, so that the hook is on the other side, as in the diagram. There is no danger of mistaking Fr, Vr, etc., for Ar, Way, S, and Z, because the latter never take an initial hook.

174. Observe that Mr and Nr are shaded to distinguish them from weM and weN.

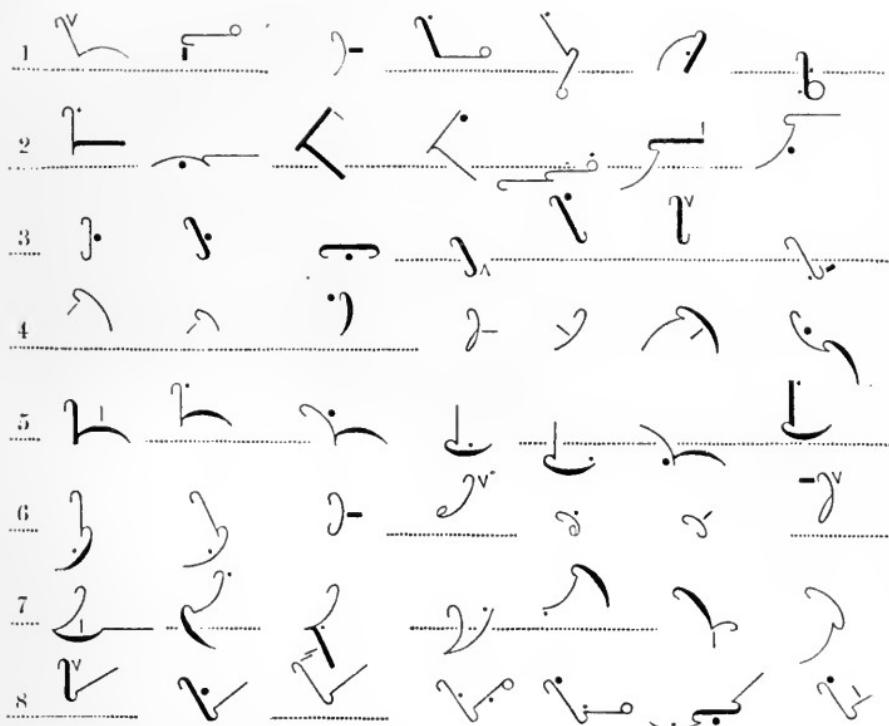

175. The names of the double consonants of the r-hook series are the last syllables of upper, sober utter, adder, pitcher, lodger, acre, anger, offer, over, author, either, usher, pleasure, rumor, and banner. Read and write the following lines ten times each:

176. Observe that Ray can be used before Mr, though not before M. See outline for rumor, on preceding page.

177. An obscure or unimportant sound is frequently omitted by careless speakers, and can often be safely omitted in shorthand writing. Thus, w may be omitted in equal, downward, etc.; y in behavior, etc.; h in behind, hand at hand (at'and), etc. As w and y are semivowels and h a mere aspirate, these are the consonants most frequently omitted.

178. Unimportant vowels are also sometimes omitted, and Pl, Fl, Pr, Fr, etc., used as if there were no vowel sound between the consonants. Ex. forgave, furniture, etc. Care must be taken, however, never to omit anything that is necessary for the legibility of a word.

18.

WRITING EXERCISE.

Free, dry, prow, Troy, gray, gross, fry, fret, freed, brace, trust, frock, dressed, crust, liver, lever, fever, butcher, badger, covert, movers, through, throng, thread, thrust, three, shriek, shrink, shrug, glazier, treasure, frost, thrush, fringe, thrash, thrown, enthroned, brazier, dimmer, banner, Palmer, calmer, graves, tinner, lamer, travel, shivers, shaver, flung, bathers, coffers, thrums, green, Vermont, furnished, reverse, revert, draft, craft, graft, drained, frowned, friends, Oliver, enshrined, ferment.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

Dr. dear during larger Mr. more from their other sure-ly remark-ed there share

Speed sentences:

Dear-Sir in-our we-may

The authors, doctors, and-every other guest received their share of honor from-the Major at Mr. Frazier's dinner. The dear, tired face grew fresher during her stay there. He-has more-and larger fruit than-his neighbors.

BUSINESS LETTER.

Dr. Frank Thrall,
Burlington, Vt.

Dear-Sir :

We have made some quite important changes and extensive improvements in our store during the past year. With our present advantages, we can handle an unusually large stock of goods with ease and dispatch. We have spared no pains in our endeavor to please our patrons, but we believe we shall be compensated by larger sales. Hoping that we may soon have an opportunity of serving you, and promising that all of your purchases shall be attended to with our usual promptness, we are-

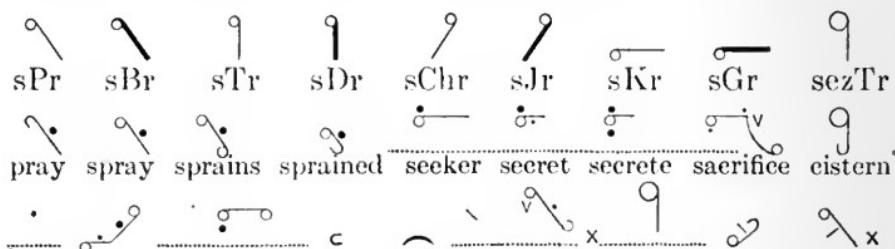

Yours-respectfully,

- QUESTIONS: 1. What is indicated by the small r hook? 2. Is this r hook on the circle side of a straight stroke or on the opposite side? 3. Write and name the straight double consonants of the r-hook series. 4. Write and name the curved double consonants of the r-hook series. 5. If Pl, Fl, Shl, were made of wire, how would they be turned to form Pr, Fr, Shr, etc.? 6. Why are Mr and Nr shaded? 7. Should Ar or Ray be used in rumor? 8. What is said of obscure or unimportant consonants? 9. What consonants are most frequently omitted in shorthand writing? 10. What vowels may be disregarded in shorthand, and when? 11. Write the phrases: Dear-Sir, in our, we may, 12. Write the wordsigns: Dr., their, sure, other, dear, there, during, share, more, larger, from, remark-ed, Mr., surely.

LESSON 14.

SMALL HOOKS REVIEWED AND CONCLUDED.

179. The circle may be written in place of the r hook on straight strokes. Ex. Pr, sPr, pronounced issPr, or simply sPer as in prosper. Write and read the following lines until they are thoroughly familiar:

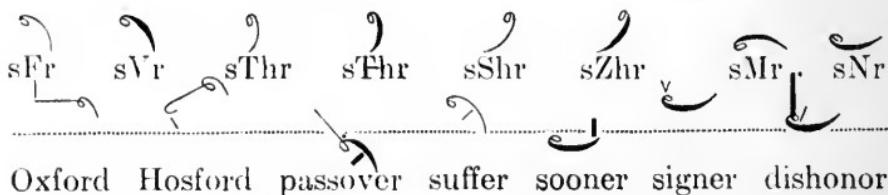

The-Secretary's screens were made of eypress. Sister served supper.

180. In the middle of a word, iss is generally written within the r hook.

181. Iss must always be written within all hooks on curves.

RESUME.

sTret 9

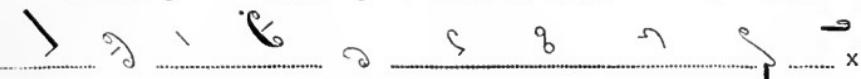

sTr 9 f sTl

f sTlt

Tents J

Tens J b Tefs or Tevs

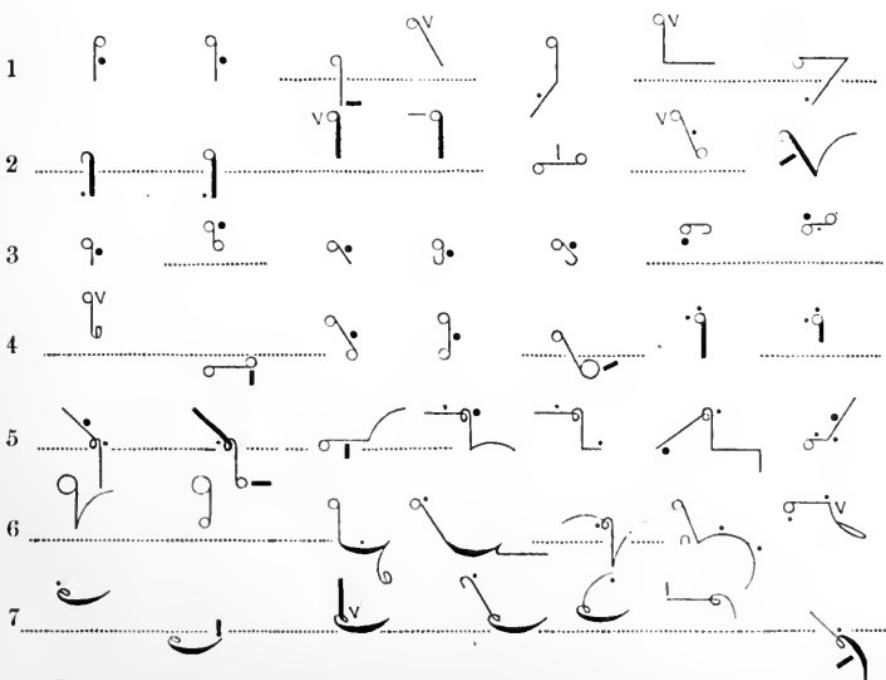

b Tefts

By-the sufferance of civilians, friends filled-the streets and-offered splendid gifts.

182. Iss may be written in place of the r and the n hooks on straight strokes; but generally in the middle of a word and always in all other cases, iss must be written within the hook. Never write iss in place of a hook on a curve, and never in place of an l or an f or v hook, for that would change the hook to simple iss.

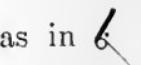

— 19.

183. When sTr follows the n hook, great pains must be taken to lengthen the circle so that both the n and the r hooks may be distinct.

monstrous minstrel remonstrances demonstrate, administrate

184. When  or  follows / or /, as in Jasper, or when  or  follows a down straight stroke, as in  disagree, add the circle to the first stroke as if it were alone, and then write the second stroke.

Jasper was discourteous, discouraging, and-disagreeable to Mr. Chesbro.

185. Summer may be written issM-Ray instead of issMr; cipher and suffer may be written issF-Ar by those who find issFr difficult. The highest authorities disagree as to the best way of writing these words. Choose, therefore, the outline that is easy for you, and always use it.

WRITING EXERCISE.

Straw, stress, strews, strikes, straps, strive, strives, screech, scrawl, sadder, cedar, cider, seeker, setter, suckers, straight, streets, struts, sprites, strained, strand, restrained, restraints, restricted, distracted, obstructed, reciprocated, masterly, mistress, destroys, distresses, outsiders, considered, seekers, sacrifices, Casper, Oxford, suffer, suffered, saffron, Hosmer, signer, sooner, designers, fastener, sisterly, cisterns, fronts, friends, descry, discreet, disagreeable, Jasper, monstrous, remonstrance, poisoner, passover, civilians, secretaries, secretes, discourage, spread, sprouts, splasher, flints, stretchers, soberly, sprained, superfine, superficial.

186. In phrasing, than and own may be represented by the n hook, and have, as well as of, by the f or v hook.
Ex. ✓ better-than, ♂ their-own. ↗ which-have.

WORDSIGNS.

nature under pleasure hundred

OUTLINES DISTINGUISHED BY POSITION.

prove approve demonstrate administrate devise advise proof device advice

187. In the sentences below and in future lessons, hyphens will be omitted in some of the phrases.

Nature gives-us pleasure in divers manners and a hundred little ways understood by few. Those proofs are approved. He has demonstrated his power to administrate the estate. Your-own may-be better-than that.

BUSINESS LETTER.

Dr. Hosmer Sprague,
Pittsburg, Pa.

Dear-Sir:

We take pleasure in mailing you to-day, under separate cover, a little souvenir book, illustrating in-a brief-and we-believe-a delightful manner, our factory and the methods and nature of engraving processes. It also contains most natural lithographs of the President, Secretary, and other officers of the Company.

I hope you will favor us with a perusal of same, and that you will find it what-we intended, namely, a fine specimen of the graphic arts.

Please consider the advantages offered in our supplement and the great facilities which we would be glad to place at your disposal.

Kindly write us for prices or other details which you may desire sent you.

Awaiting your commands, we are

Respectfully yours,

The Werner Printing Co.

QUESTIONS.

1. How is the circle combined with the r hook in stray?
2. How is the circle combined with the r hook in restrict?
3. How is iss combined with the r hook in sooner? 4. Write sTl, Tefs, sTlt, Tefts, sTr, Stret, Tens, Tents. 5. What hooks may be changed to circles? 6. What hooks cannot be changed to circles, and why? 7. How are such words as disagree written? 8. What caution is given in regard to making the sTr after the n hook? 9. Write: Remonstrance, demonstrate, discouraging, summer, cipher, administrate, suffer, monstrous. Tell what is peculiar about each one. 10. What may be represented by the n hook in phrasing? 11. What may be represented by the f or v hook in phrasing? 12. Write: Their-own, your-own, our-own, her-own, better-than, more-than, sooner-than, which-have, who-have.

LESSON 15.

DOUBLE-LENGTH CURVES.

188. Making Emp twice as long as usual changes it to Emper or Ember. Ex.  temper,  amber.

189. Doubling Ing changes it to Inger or Inker. Ex.  long,  longer,  thinker.

190. Doubling any other curve adds thr, dr, or tr (ter or ture). Ex.  neither,  surrender,  motor,  materials.

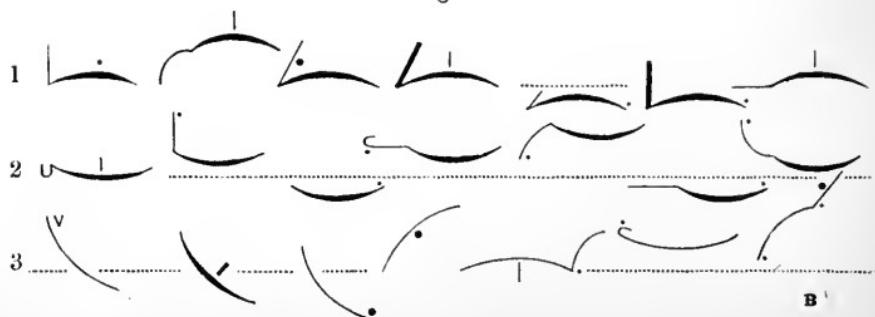

191. The first half of a lengthened stroke is put in the position it would occupy were it a single length. Ex.  fee,  feature,  feather,  latter.

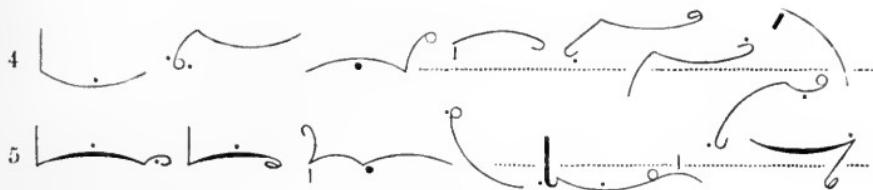

192. A final hook, circle or loop is read after the added syllable. Ex.  modern,  winters.

193. It is better to make a double length too long than too short. If it is too short, it may be mistaken for a single length.

20.

WRITING EXERCISE.

Letter, latter, leader, enter, mother, madder, motherly, neither, neuter, nitre, mitre, motors, feathers, fathers, features, fitters, fighters, finger, anger, longer, linger, languor, hunger, tinker, canker, anchor, rancor, thither, thinker, damper, tamper, hamper, lumber, limber, timber, temper, temporal, temporary, render, surrender, tender, voter, order, orderly, disorder, smother, modern, lantern, Easter, eastern, oysters, literary, temperance, Walter, wilder, wilderness, diameter, thither, softer, sifters, shutters, smoother, ardor, harder, cylinder, motors, entrance, hindrance.

194. In phrasing, lengthening may be employed to add their, there or they-are, and sometimes other or dear. Write the following sentences ten or twenty times:

Are-there any books on Finnish literature in-their library?
My-dear-friends, the Prince's defenders had wonderful adventures.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

entire matter over very member number board particularly part until tell told remember-ed appeared till which-are as-soon-as longer-than the-other (thuther)

Speed Sentences:

He-tells me that-he remembers going over the entire matter with them.

He-told a-number-of very important particulars to the members of the board.

Wait until the party of the first part tells which-are the best for their needs.

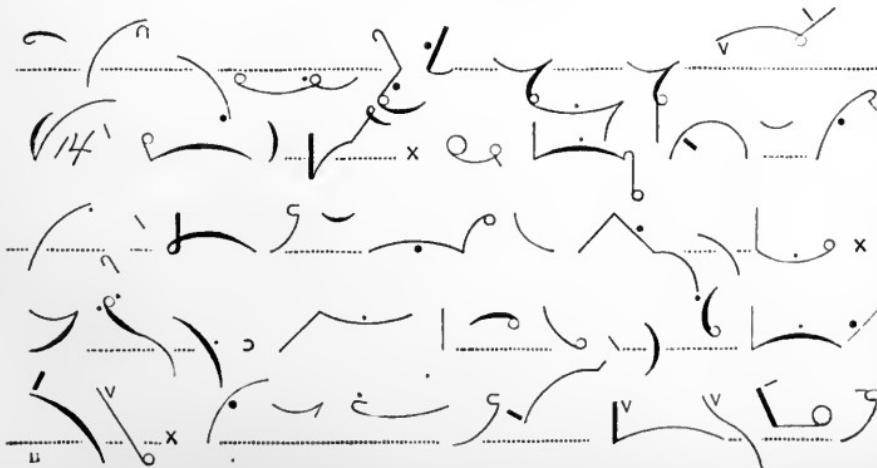

21.

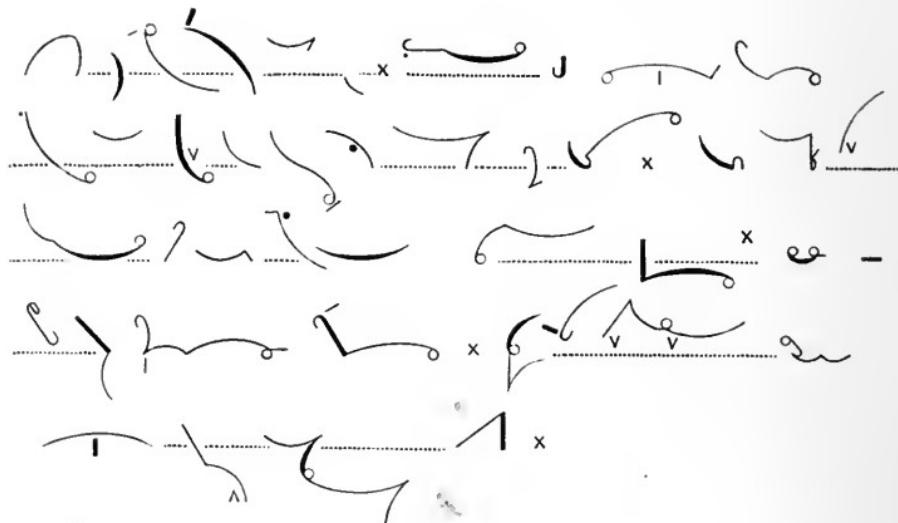

- 1
- 2
- 3
- 4
- 5
- 6
- 7
- 8

WRITING EXERCISE.

For-there, have-their, think-there, see-their, show-their, for-there-will-be, for-there-may-be; for-there-is, if-there-is, if-there-is-time, we-have-their, I-have-their, I-will-have-their, we-will-have-their, he-was-there, he-will-have-their, are-there-many, we-think-there-is, I-think-there-will-be, I-think-they-are-ready, seen-their, I-have-seen-their, know-their, do-you-know-their, some-other-roads, some-other-cases, in-their-case, in-other-words, the-other, the-other-time, the-other-day, the-other-road, the-other-rates. Esther wrote-a long letter to her father-and-mother Thursday, and-Friday she wrote-a still longer letter to her sister. Can you open-the shutters? Render honor to whom honor-is due. The longer you-linger the harder it-will-be for-you to enter upon your task. Does-it-make any difference whether-the diameter (of the) cylinder-is six-inches or ten? The feather pillows ought-to-be smoother, then-the room will look neater. Mr. Luther's remarks were particularly good. What-was-the nature of-his business? Which-are yours?

BUSINESS LETTER.

Mr. Luther Arthur Sanderson, Purchasing Agent New-York-Central,
New-York-City.

My-dear-Sir:

Your-letter of the 14th of September was duly received. As-soon-as-the temperature-is lower, not later-than-the latter part of December, we-shall need materials for repairing our tenders. Unusually severe weather would render it impossible for-us to use these temporary water pipes.

Later in the winter we shall alter-the diameter of the fire boxes, and we shall also use softer water in the future. Clinkers do-not smother-the flames if-there-is any device for forcing-the air entirely through the ventilators. Have you noticed the lighter fingers which-are now a feature of the longer cylinder dampers?

Send us-a good supply-of both thermometers-and barometers.

Yours truly,
WALTER REIFSNIDER,
Supt. Motor Power, N. Y. C. R.

QUESTIONS: 1. What is the effect of doubling Emp? 2. What is the effect of doubling Ing? 3. What else may be doubled, and to add what syllables? 4. Which half of a double length is put in position? 5. Is a final hook read before or after tr, dr, or thr? 6. When is a circle or loop read? 7. What caution is given in Par. 193? 8. In phrasing, what is indicated by doubling? 9. Write and read the following wordsigns: Tell, part, entire, number, very, particularly, until, matter, member, told, over, board, remember, nature, hundred, pleasure, under, other, from, their, more, remark, during, larger, surely, dear, doctor, Mr., share.

LESSON 16.

LARGE HOOKS.

tw dw kw gw lr ml nl rl

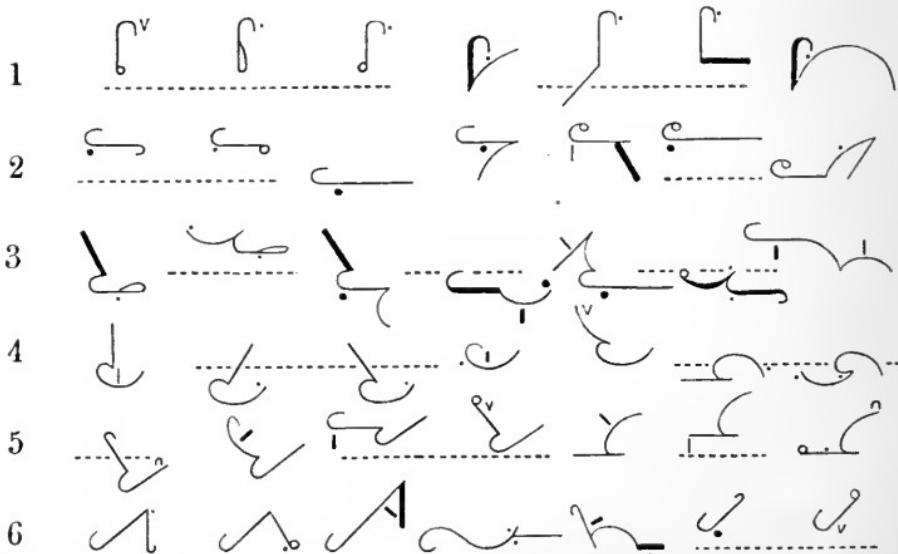

195. The above are called Tway, Dway, Kway, Gway, Ler, Mel, Nel and Rel. Ex. twain, dwell.

196. El is generally used after Kway. Ex. quail.

197. A vowel never comes between the large w hook and its stroke, but Ler, Mel, Nel and Rel can generally be used in long outlines, and Rel in a few short words, when a vowel comes between the hook and the stroke. Ex.

railroad, rely, real, rule

22.

EXERCISE.

Twill, twine, twilight, quack, quail, quill, query, quaver, quench, quote, squall, squeal, dwelling, guava, guano, dwelt, Guam, keeler, color, collar, secular, camel, enamel, pommel, final, penal, funnel, only, relic, reluctant, relatives, channel, panel, quiver, twinge, quarto, sanguine, dwellers, venal, tunnel, relapse, nominal, quantity, railroad, malignant.

T-tr, -dr, -thr J L T-shun

198. A large final hook on the circle side of any stroke adds the sound of shun or zhun to the stroke. Ex. L attention.

199. A large final hook on the opposite side of a straight stroke adds the sound of tr, dr or thr. (There, their, they-are)

J S Y L — J daughter spider brother director collector had-there

200. The n hook may be added to the tr, dr, thr hook, as in Y brethren.

201. Make all of these hooks very large, so that they cannot be mistaken for small hooks. Ler, Mel, Nel and Rel will look like weL, weM, weN and weR unless made quite large.

— 23.

1 —J— L —T— L —J— S —T— S —J—
2 Y J S —T— S —J—

WRITING EXERCISE.

Option, action, mission, notions, fashions, compassion, connection, congregation, pewter, potter, spiders, daughters, brother, brothers, brethren, equator, gladder, director, direction, execution, executors, collection, collector, faction, factor, bladder, suction, writer, Congressional, go-there, pay-their, I-will-be-there.

WORDSIGNS.

never afford because U. S.

call difficult-y appear principal-ly practice govern equal principle practical -ed-ment

Speed Sentences:

|                                                                             
It appears that my practice has never equaled yours. The U. S. government has overcome only the principal difficulties. He has never been able to keep up appearances because his practice is too small. Call on the Principal, and tell him to equalize matters unless he wishes a general strike.

                                                                            
BUSINESS LETTER.

This image shows a single page of handwritten text in a cursive script, possibly a form of Arabic or Persian calligraphy. The text is written in a fluid, flowing style with many ligatures connecting adjacent letters. There are several decorative elements, including small circles (o) and crosses (x) placed over certain letters, and a few larger, more complex symbols or initials at the beginning of lines. The script uses a set of characters that include dots and dashes above and below the main strokes to indicate vowel sounds.

Mr. Daniel Clark,
Electric Railway Motor Co.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

We hereby call the attention of the Directors of the Electric Railway Construction Company to the Convention of Railroad Officials, which convenes at Waterloo, in April next.

One of the features of this Convention will be a practical exhibition of motors and dynamos. Arrangements have already been made for the machinery to be used by their demonstrators. General plans for electric railway extension may also receive consideration.

Where there are many exhibitors, the execution of original plans is sometimes difficult, but the contractor's early completion of the Cuyler Tunnel and Lower River Channel exhibits has surpassed our most sanguine expectations.

We hope you will improve the opportunity afforded by the Convention not only to display the new machinery you are advertising, but also to make some large sales.

Let us hear from you at your earliest convenience.

Very truly yours,
Peter Petrie, Sec.

QUESTIONS: 1. What are the large initial hooks?
2. What are the large final hooks? 3. What caution is given in regard to the formation of the large hooks? 4. Write the following wordsigns: Because, principal, govern, afford, equal, United States, appear, call, never, practice, difficulty.

LESSON 17.

CHOICE OF STROKE OR BRIEF SIGN.

202. As has been taught in previous lessons, Z, and not iss, must be used for initial z. Ex. zinc, sink, zeal, seal.

203. Heh cannot be joined to a stroke unless it makes a sharp angle with it. Heh is never used before N or Ing. It is always used for h before the other horizontals, and before Lay, Ar and Way. Some use it in a few other cases.

hoax hogshead ham hump hair hill whew

204. RULE 7. Halving must not be employed in unusual words nor in proper names where it would be difficult to tell whether t or d were intended. Ex. Luyden, not Let-N.

205. RULE 8. Do not halve a stroke unless it makes a sharp angle with the stroke or strokes to which it is joined. For instance, K cannot be halved in locate, for if it were, the outline would look like Lay-K or like Lay only.

Tighten must be written T-Ten, not Tet-N, because the joining in the latter would be bad. Straighten cannot be written sTret-N, but always sTr-Ten.

206. RULE 9. A hook can never be used for N after a half length. Add N, not the hook, to cot for cotton, to got for gotten, to fat for fatten, to glad for gladden, etc. When a hooked stroke is halved, the hook is read before the t or d, never after it. is gland, not gladden.

coin coined arrive arrived clean cleaned lined lighten

207. It is sometimes more convenient to use a brief sign in the middle of a word than at its end. For instance, defense should be written Def-Ns rather than D-Fens, for the sake of the angle.

dozen cannon driven penance advocate define Providence

208. Every word should be so written that every important vowel in it may be inserted if desired, and placed by some stroke. Hence, there must be at least one stroke in every word, wordsigns excepted. Ex.

wise, More freedom is allowed in the use of a stroke for h, w or y than for s. Ex.

house, not ; or yellow.

209. If there is only one consonant next to a vowel, that consonant must be represented by a stroke. Thus, s is the only consonant next to the initial vowel in ask, the only consonant next to the final vowel in also, the only consonant next to u in Suez; hence, S, not iss, must be used in these words.

210. RULE 10. When a word begins with a vowel sound, use a stroke for the first consonant. Ex.

ask,

awoke,

oyer.

211. RULE 11. When a word ends in a vowel sound, use a stroke for the last consonant.

also Ottawa Tokyo coffee gravy china putty lady

212. RULE 12. When two consonants are separated by two vowel sounds, both of which are necessary to distinguish the word, then both consonants must be represented by strokes. Ex. } Suez; } science, not } ; } pious, not } ; fiat, not } x

213. A brief sign at the beginning of an outline shows that there is no initial vowel. A brief sign, a half length, or a double length, at the end of an outline, shows that there is no final vowel. Therefore—

214. If a word begins with S, Way or Yay, look out for an initial vowel, as in } east; or, in rare cases, for two vowels after the first consonant, as in } sciatica, } Wyoming.

215. If a word ends in S, Z, F, V, N, T or D, look out for a final vowel, as in } policy or } memento; or in rare cases, for two vowels before the last consonant, as in } situate. Remember that the lack of an angle or the presence of a brief sign in the middle of a word may necessitate the use of a following stroke, as in  affect or  attendant.

RESUME.

When there is no other consonant stroke next to a vowel, use the stroke.

Hay. Ex.
S, Z. Ex.
Way, Yay. Ex.
F, V, N. Ex.
T, D. Ex.
Shen. Ex.
Tr, Dr, Thr. Ex.

Otherwise, if practicable, use the brief method.

Tiek. Ex.
Circle. Ex.
Semicircle. Ex.
Small hook. Ex.
Large hook. Ex.
Half length. Ex.
Double length. Ex.

—○— 24.

WRITING EXERCISE.

Sleep, asleep, state, estate, spy, espy, esteem, less, lessee, moss, mossy, quince, Quincy, assume, ensue, bias, pious, scion, science, chaos, Seattle, woke, awoke, ward, award, Wyandotte, Yale, yeast, yeas, Yates, Tokyo, stairway, Wyoming, tin, tiny, fan, Fannie, chin, china, cough, coffee, beef, bevy, ruin, Cheyenne, pit, pity, naught, naughty, mud, muddy, poet, fiat, period, enter, entry, loiter, lottery, center, sentry, Utica, tighten, straighten, cotton, lighten, fatten, define, advocate, Providence, winter, wintry.

216. It may be indicated by halving the preceding stroke.

for-it have-it to-have-it think-it at-it had-it from-it over-it if-it if-it-is if-it-were I-think-it-is-a make-it take-it

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

behind gentleman begin begun began
 I-did-not I-do-not I-had-not we-did-not we-do-not we-had-not di'n't don't had'n't

Speed Sentences:

We-had-not begun our estimates when they called yesterday. I-had-not seen the gentleman behind you. He begins to assert his supremacy over the others. Have you ascertained whether they will continue another year? From their remarks I judge they are makers of fine pottery. He began as first assistant in the business.

BUSINESS LETTER.

Mr. John Dana,
Hot Springs, Ark.

Dear Sir:

Is-your heating plant in good condition for the winter? You would find it good policy to have it attended to very soon and avoid the inevitable labor troubles, freight blockades, and other contingencies, in the fall. Aside from these very vexing delays, I-know I-can save you considerable in the cost of the work if-you-will-have-it done in-the near future.

Before making any repairs, be sure to look over my new hot water and steam heaters, which-are made of refined boiler steel. The saving in coke alone will make an exchange a matter of economy.

Unless it is convenient for you to visit our office, write us for any particulars you may desire.

Very truly yours,

Austin,Crozier & Co.

QUESTIONS: 1. What is used for initial z? 2. Before what strokes may heh be used? 3. Give two cases when halving cannot be employed, and give examples in each case. 4. What should be used for n after a half length, and why? Give examples. 5. Write cannon, driven, dozen, locate, and state why these words end in a stroke instead of a brief sign. 6. Write wise and house, and state why the choice of stroke and brief sign. 7. Why is the stroke used for s in ask, also, and Suez? 8. Give the three rules, with examples under each rule. 9. If a word begins with a brief sign, what is always indicated? 10. If a word ends in a brief sign, what is always indicated? 11. What is generally indicated if a word begins with S, Way or Yay? 12. What is generally indicated if a word ends in S, Z, F, V, N, T, or D? 13. Why cannot you lengthen for tr in entry and wintry? 14. What word may be added by halving?

LESSON 18.

PREFIXES.

217. The vowel in a prefix is known and need not be indicated by position. The rest of the word is therefore generally placed in the position of the first prominent vowel after the prefix.

Prefix	Sign	Examples
Con, conn, com, comm, cum, cog.	218. Represented by writing the part that follows con , com , etc., close to or below the word or syllable which precedes it. When this is inconvenient or un- safe, a dot before the stroke and in line with it, is used.	 accompany  unconcerned  reconciled  recommend  cognate  inconnection

Write: Accommodate, accommodation, accomplice, unconfessed, your-communication, this-conclusion, in-conclusion, recommended, recognize, combined, committees, command, great-confusion, inconvenient, incumbent, incumbrance.

Circum, self.	219. Iss placed before the middle of a stroke. Iss is joined for self in very frequent words.	 circumscribe  self-made  selfish
------------------	---	--

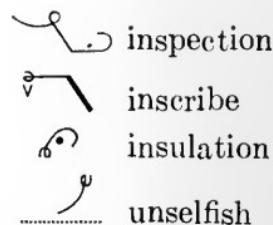

Write: Circumspect, circumspection, circumvent, circumvention, circumscribe, circumference, self-love, self-defense, self-denial, self-confident, self-esteem, self-condemned.

Counter,            220. Choid or Poid in contra=i=o.       same place as con dot.

Write: Counterfeit, countermarch, counteract, contradiction, contraband, countermine, countersign, counterfeiters, counterbalance, counterpart, contravene, controvert, controversy.

In,                  221. N when convenen,                  ient. N curl before an un.                  iss which must be made with a clock-like motion.

Write: Inception, instigate, institution, instrument, instruct, enslave, unseemly, insulates, insulation, insolvent, inscription.

Magna=e-i.       222. M placed over the following stroke.

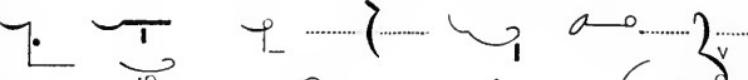

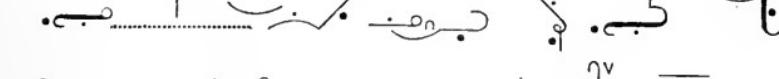

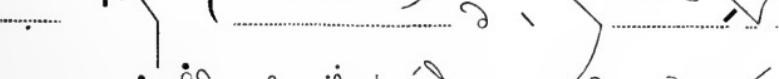

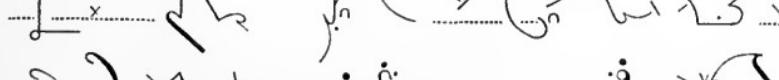

Write: Magnify, magnificence, magnetic, magnetism, magnetize, magnifier, magnanimous, magnanimously.

Wordsigns:       223. When a word-sign is used as a prefix, it must occupy its proper position, and the rest of the word follows without regard to position.

Write: Almost, altogether, forward, afterward, afternoon, understood, understand, goodness, otherwise, undertake, first-class, although, almighty, undersigned.

 25

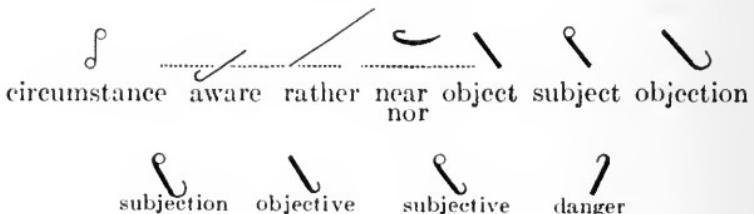

- 1
- 2
- 3
- 4
- 5
- 6
- 7
- 8
- 9
- 10
- 11

WRITING EXERCISE.

Good-natured, self-made, cognizant, concede, consist, commenced, contrived, commune, commendation, incumbent, in-communication, will-contain, will-contrive, self-evident, insulation, incumbrance, unseal, unscrupulous, self-same, self-will, insulator, circumspect, countersink, counterplot, contraband, magnitude, magnificent, insolency, afternoon, magnesia, contain, unselfish, noncommittal.

WORDSIGNS.

Speed Sentences:

Under-the-circumstances, his objections are rather annoying. Neither he nor 1

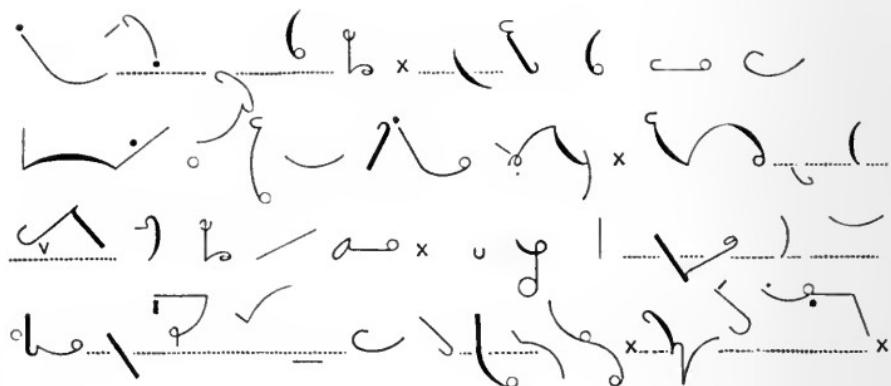

?

- 1
- 2
- 3
- 4

- 5 { } ~ x . e → 6 2 /
- 6 ~ ( ) / x b / ✓ \ / \ ( )
- 7 . x v v l — c j — x v t v s /
- 8 — — ( x ) \ / \ / \ / \ / \ / x
- 9 : \ 8 y - ( b x ^ v \ / \ / \ / x
- 10 r r — r - r ) \ / x 6 — — —
- 11 ( ) c , v ) v v x h p \ / v x )
- 12 v \ / \ / \ / \ / \ / \ / \ / \ / x

BUSINESS LETTER

A series of short, stylized cursive strokes representing shorthand symbols for a business letter. The strokes include various loops, dashes, and dots, some with accompanying numbers or letters, such as '15?', 'b', 'v', 'x', 's', and 'p'.

Mr. Quinn Morrison,
Cheyenne, Wyoming.
My dear Mr. Morrison:

I have your communication of the 15th, concerning instruments to be used in installing our insulating plant.

Our inspectors have looked into the matter thoroughly, and find that there is a feeling of apprehension on the part of several because of a suit which has been brought against the company offering to furnish these instruments. However, we believe this difficulty is only temporary, as we think there is no danger of the Company's insolvency. We have always found them reliable, and their instruments are first-class. Yet, under the circumstances, it behooves us, in self-defense, to be cautious, and I will act only upon advice of our officers.

Very truly,
Potter Inskeep.

QUESTIONS. 1. If a word begins with a prefix, which vowel governs the position of the word? 2. What prefix may be indicated by proximity, i. e., by writing what follows the prefix close to the preceding stroke? 3. In what other way may con, com, cog, etc., be represented? 4. Write: Accompany, decompose, disconcert, inconvenient, misconduct, nonconductor, recommend, in connection, commenced, commune. 5. How is circum indicated? 6. What other prefix may be represented by the same sign? 7. When may self be joined? 8. What prefixes are indicated by a detached tick? 9. What is represented by the n curl, and when is this curl used instead of N? 10. What is used to indicate magna-e-i? 11. What is said of the position of a wordsign used as a prefix?

LESSON 19.

REVIEW AND PHRASING.

224. Doubling the length of Emp makes it Emper or Ember. Doubling the length of Ing makes it Inger or Inker. Doubling the length of any other curve adds tr, dr, or thr.

225. A final hook is read after the tr, dr, or thr of a double length.

This winter is longer than usual, and the temperature has been lower.

226. A large final hook on the circle side of any stroke adds the sound of shun. A large final hook on the opposite side of a straight stroke adds the sound of tr, dr, or thr.

You will soon learn to do really fine enameling, if you will only accurately follow the directions of your instructor.

227. Intelligent phrasing not only adds to shorthand speed, but results in greater ease and certainty in reading, and should receive as careful attention as the wordsigns.

228. Phrase only such words as are closely connected in thought, as a pronoun and its verb, a verb and its object, a modifier and the word modified, a preposition and the word following. Ex. it was, tell us, very good.

229. As previously directed, do not use a dot for a, an, and, or the when a tick can be conveniently used.

230. Remember that with the exception of a, an, and, and he, the first word of a phrase is written in position unless some subsequent word in the phrase must be written in position in order to be read with certainty. Ex.  and it has been,  as much as.

231. You should be phrased whenever convenient, even if necessary to invert it.

we think you have we hope you have let you know will you have if you desire

232. Us, is, his, as or has may be represented by iss, or by changing iss to ses. From the context it will be clear which word is represented.

give us gives us tells us is his, is as as is, as has this is a it-is-his-his is, his has has as, has his intention as good as as far as as fast as as great as as soon as as has been

233. Not may be represented by Net; or by the n hook and halving, as in  or  are-not. In  or-not, the n hook alone is added for not. Those who use Kent for cannot must be very careful to make the half length short enough, so that there will be no danger of mistaking it for can. For most persons, Ken-Net is far safer than Kent<sup>1</sup> for cannot.

234. Use the full form for I before S and Z, Ar and Way; but before other strokes use Poid or Roid, according to the direction of the stroke—Poid, the downward tick, before an up stroke, but Roid, the upward tick, before a down stroke.

235. In the middle or at the end of a phrase, use the full form for I.

I say I see I was I remain I await I am I am not I understand

236. Use Choid for he at the beginning or in the middle of a phrase; but use Choid, Roid, or Poid, according to convenience, at the end of a phrase, he will not be he is a he has a is he does he was he did he would he

237. WeL, weM, weN and weR are used in many phrases beginning with we or with. WeRnt is used for were not.

with respect, with regard, with him, with me, we may have, we may not have, we are not we are not inclined were not they were not we were not we will not we inclose

238. When must is joined to a following word, its loop is generally changed to a circle.

I must have, he must be, you must not do, we must, we must have, we must be sure

239. In phrasing, each small hook may represent a word, as follows:

Than, own, or one by the n hook. more than, our own, at once
 Of or have by the f or v hook. which have, out of day of
 Are or our by the r hook. which are, at our by our Will or all by the l hook. it will, in all at all the other one in our letter it will not be which have been number of cases by all means it will not do

240. These hooks are used freely on ticks by some careful writers.

who have been who will who will have who are who are not to our of our

241. Double a curve or add the thr hook to a straight stroke, for their, there, or they-are. After a brief sign or a half-length or double-length curve, add Boid or Joid for there or they-are.

242. There are ten words in each of the speed sentences in this lesson. Practice each sentence until it is easy for you to write it correctly. Note how many times you can write the sentence and write it well in a minute. Try it a second minute, and note the gain. Practice each sentence until you can write it at least ten or fifteen times in a minute, i. e., at the rate of 100 to 150 words a minute.

Speed sentences:

I am sure we wish you well in all things.

The price is higher than I am inclined to pay.

I will say that this is not our own machine.

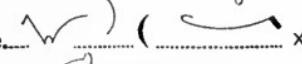

It will not be any longer than the other one.

In all such cases they will keep out of reach.

I hope you will see them when they are there.

I will try to be there as soon as possible.

Wire us at once if there is anything down there.

By all means finish theirs as soon as you can.

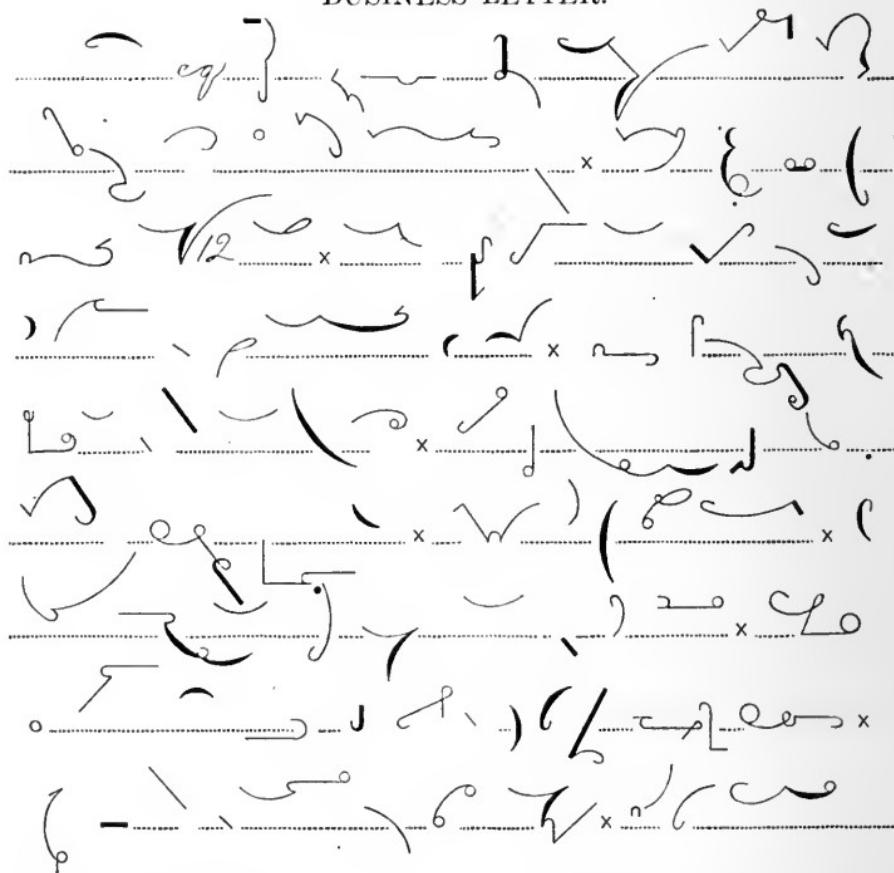

There may be more than you think in this case.

We have asked those who are already in our employ.

BUSINESS LETTER.

Mr. C. Q. Austin,
Hartford, Conn.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter of recent date, I will say that the price of the Arnold Machine is higher than I am inclined to pay. I am sure that this is not as good as the other one you mentioned in your letter of the 12th inst. In fact, it will not do the work any better than our own, nor is it likely to last any longer than the old model. You can tell Arnold Brothers that you have instructions not to buy any of their machines.

Wire us at once if there is anything down there for us, and I will be there as soon as possible to take care of it. I hope you will see the other solicitors when they are there. They will finish their canvassing in Eastern New York in about three weeks.

In all such cases as require immediate action, do not hesitate to use your own judgment and close the contract as soon as you can.

I think there is a good opportunity to increase our sales in your territory.

Wishing you well in all things, I am,

Very truly yours,

- QUESTIONS. 1. What is the effect of lengthening Emp? 2. What is the effect of lengthening Ing? 3. What other syllables are added by lengthening? 4. Is a final hook read before or after the ter, der, or ther? 5. What strokes take the shun hook, and on which side of the stroke is it written? 6. What strokes take the other large final hook, and what does it represent? 7. How does phrasing help in shorthand writing? Of what advantage is it in reading? 8. When only should words be phrased? 9. Which word in a phrase is generally written in position? Name some words that are exceptions. 10. In what other case is the first word of a phrase not written in position? 11. In the phrase and we had not, which word is placed in position? 12. What is said of phrasing you? 13. What may be represented by iss in phrasing? 14. How may these words be added to iss? 15. In what two ways is not represented in phrasing? 16. How is are not written? 17. How is I represented in phrasing? He? We or with? 18. What is used for were not? 19. What is the peculiarity of must in phrasing? 20. What may be represented by the n hook? By the f or v hook? By the r hook? By the l hook? 21. Give the rules for representing there or they-are; their.

LESSON 20.

AFFIXES.

242. A wordsign is often used as an affix, disjoined if necessary for convenience or legibility. Ex. hereafter, thereto, thereof, whosoever.

243. Use B for =ble or =bly. Ex. profitable-y.

244. Use F for fore, either prefix or affix; f or v hook or F stroke for =full or =fully. Ex. therefore, painful-ly, hopeful-ly.

245. Instead of the -ing dot, use

1. Iss for =ings, =ing=his, or =ing=us. Ex. tidings, doing-his, fitting-us.

2. Light slanting tick for =ing=the. Ex. advertising-the.

3. Koid or Toid for =ing=a. Ex. doing-a packing-a.

4. Joid or Boid for =ingly. Ex. exceedingly.

5. U for =ing=you. Ex. thanking you.

246. Represent =ality, =ility, =erity, or =arity by writing the stroke which immediately precedes =ality, etc., to the right and a little below the first part of the word.

frugality legibility popularity prosperity dexterity responsibility instrumentality

247. Use iss for =self, sez for =selves, and Ish for =ship, detached when not convenient to join them.

myself himself one's self yourselves friendship hardship

248. Write a word in full if it is just as easy; but if it is easier to write and perfectly legible, use the prefix or affix. For instance, it is better to write Bet-Fl for beautiful than to use the affix for -ful. Commission may be written or . It is easier to write the stroke than the dot for -ing after most circles, and frequently after hooks.

WRITING EXERCISE.

Whenever, hereon, although, altogether, whosoever, wheresoever, attainable, responsible, sinful, watchful, wherefore, successful, buying-the, doings, meetings, making-a, meeting-his, meeting-us, putting-the, concerning-the, having-the, doing-a, boastingly, interestingly, wittingly, knowingly, legibility, susceptibility, peculiarity, similarity, frugality, credibility, instrumentality, lovingly, myself, themselves, ourselves, yourself, herself, himself, yourselves, kinship, township, apprenticeship, blushingly, friendship, accountable, posterity, hospitality, honorable, remarkable, lawful, facing-the, tracing-the, exceedingly.

249. When the sound of shun follows iss or the ns circle, it is indicated by continuing the line of the circle until it forms a curl on the opposite side of the stroke, as in decision, condensation. This curl is called ishun. A vowel, i, ē, or ā, always comes between the s and the shun when ishun is used. I is indicated by a light dot placed before the combined circle and curl; eh and A are placed after the combined circle and curl.

physician musician sensations procession sensational generalization

250. The ishun curl is used in words ending in the sound of sishun, seshun, sashun, or similar syllables with z in place of s. It is used only after a circle.

251. The large hook for shun is used only after a stroke, and in only a few cases after the stroke S; never after iss.

option opposition transition session circumcision association pronunciation

WRITING EXERCISE.

Compassion, composition, fashion, physician, action, accession, accusation, instruction, decision, decisions, inscription, condensation, musicians, disposition, dispossession, dispensation, transitions, transitional, sensational, imposition, session, concession, cessation, secession, organization, intercession, contrition, pronunciation.

252. Nr may be used for in re in such phrases as in reply to,  in regard to, etc.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES.

accord-ing-ly deal deliver toward influence influenced influences information describe descriptive description experience experienced experiences somewhat in response in relation in reference we are in receipt of your letter

B

Speed sentences:

In response to your request, we will immediately deliver the goods.

Inclosed is our descriptive circular, which will give you the desired information. He is a man of influence and experience, and we wish you to deal with him accordingly. His manner toward us is somewhat offensive.

BUSINESS LETTER.

Mr. James L. Ware,
2722 Ivanhoe Av., St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sir:

We note that you have made a sale of real estate, and would invite your attention to the desirability of reinvesting in good bonds of this or some other municipality. They require very little time or attention, are readily convertible into cash, and can be purchased on such terms that they will not only yield a good rate of interest, but will also improve in value.

The popularity of this class of investments is increasing, and through our instrumentality several of your neighbors have made exceedingly profitable purchases.

We are not serving an apprenticeship in this business, but have for years been purchasing bonds suitable for such investments, and can therefore unhesitatingly assure you of better terms than can usually be secured in the general market.

We inclose a partial list of what we are now in position to offer, and we shall be pleased to serve you for a very reasonable compensation. If not convenient for you to call upon us, we will have one of our representatives visit you and ascertain your decision.

Assuring you of the reliability of any information we may give you concerning an investment of this nature, and promising strict fidelity in any dealings you may intrust to us, we are,

Respectfully yours,

QUESTIONS. 1. What is said of wordsign affixes? 2. What may represent -ble or -bly? 3. What may be used for -fore? What for -ful or -fully? 4. What five signs may be written instead of the ing dot, and what is represented by each sign? 5. How may -ality, -ility, -erity, or -arity be represented? 6. What may be used for -self? For -selves? For -ship? 7. When should a word be written in full, and when should a prefix or affix be used? 8. How is the ishun curl made? 9. What vowels may precede the ishun curl, and how may each one be indicated? 10. How can you tell when to use the ishun curl and when to use the shur hook? 11. What may be used to represent in-re-? 12. Write the following wordsigns and phrases: Influence, influenced, influences, deliver, information, accordingly, toward, describe, descriptive, description, somewhat, deal, experience, experienced, experiences, in reference, in relation, in response, we are in receipt of your letter.

LESSON 21.

EXCEPTIONS.

253. It is sometimes necessary to write Est up.

Among the excursionists was one of the finest elocutionists I have ever heard.

254. When a light and a heavy stroke join without an angle, as in catalog or data, make the change in the shading gradual, not abrupt. Write both strokes quickly, as if they were but a single stroke, and it will be found easy to shade properly.

Write: Ditto, tidy, foggy, figs, diet, duet, toady, victor, victory, logs, kegs, Chicago, detain, Dayton, radiate, always, severe, among.

255. For the sake of legibility, a double letter is sometimes represented by two strokes instead of one. Ex.

evenness, solely. This exception applies only to derivatives, and is often used to distinguish a negative from a positive word. Ex. necessary, unnecessary, natural, unnatural, noticed, unnoticed.

256. The pen may sometimes be lifted in the middle of an outline, and the latter part of the word lapped by the first part to show their connection.

attitude institute substitute rewritten architect brightness badness prepaid instituted substituted architect unmindful

257. Unless there is a final vowel, El should be used after F, V, and Ray. As stated previously, El is generally used after N and Ing, whether there is a final vowel or not.

foil filed veils refutable burial unlawful intellectual individual

258. When l comes between an initial vowel and a horizontal stroke, use El to indicate that the word begins with a vowel.

The Elks had an elegant illumination in Illinois recently. Elongated eloquence(?)

259. El may be used when more convenient than Lay.

openly lesson license friendly alcohol sensational constitutional

260. El may be used in unusual or conflicting words to indicate that there is an initial vowel before l, or that there is no final vowel after l.

oldest latest legal illegal legible illegible elucidate

261. In all other cases use Lay. El is never used as the only stroke in a word.

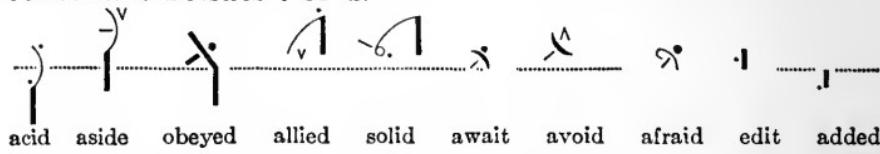

alone Allen Ellen else elsewhere align alignment

WRITING EXERCISE

Elm, lame, alum, Elmira, like, alike, Alleghany, alimony, luminous, legation, allegation, alligator, legible, alkali, alumni, Eleanor, Illinois, electro, elector, election, elective, electric, elbow, alabaster, continental, aluminum, fuel, vowel, file, vile, tinfoil, squeal, elimination, illumination, Alexander, Alexandria, Alma Mater, alcohol, squall, elementary, alliance, elocution, elucidate, elocutionists, elocutionary, electoral, oleander, ultimate, ultimatum, almanac, eloquence, legacy, avail, vial, violin, whirl, whirlwind, swirl, twirl, license, licensed, elucidation, alimentary.

262. With the exception of very frequent words like about, added, and avoid, which can be easily read, halving is not employed in words consisting of two vowels and only one consonant besides t or d.

263. There are a few words in which a half length may be joined without an angle, because it is made distinct by its hook, its shading, or by the opposite direction of its curve.

264. F or v may be added to a few curves by a thin hook, made half as long as the stroke to distinguish it from the n hook.

265. The small l and r hooks may be used with Chay, J, K, Gay, and generally with Ish, in words of frequent occurrence, even though a prominent vowel intervenes. By remembering this exception, the student can write from principle many words which are usually memorized as wordsigns. Ex. child, court. But if there is a final vowel after l or r, the hook cannot be used. Ex. chilly, carry.

266. The double consonants formed from these five strokes can be safely used, because the words represented by each outline are so few that the context will easily determine which word is meant.

267. A reporter seldom vocalizes these words, writing longer outlines in cases of uncertainty in preference to taking the time necessary to insert a vowel. If, however, vocalization is desired, an intervening dot vowel may be indicated by writing a circle instead of a dot in first, second, or third place, as the case may be. Ex. chill, shelf, gallon. If convenient, write the circle before the stroke for a heavy dot, but after it for a light dot. Ex. keel, kill.

268. Dash vowels and diphthongs are written across the stroke unless prevented by the presence of a circle, loop, or hook. In such case, the vowel is written just before or just after the stroke, as required. Ex. coal, north, require, inquire.

Charles cheers the Chairman. George Gilmore's figures are carefully made

269. In rare cases, and where there would be no sacrifice of legibility, the hook for l or r may be used with other strokes than the five mentioned above, in order—

1. To prevent an awkward joining, as in engineer.
2. To shorten an outline which can be easily read by its consonants alone, as in parallel.
3. To give a word a more distinct and legible outline, as in barrel. B-Rel is not a good outline for barrel, because in rapid work it may be mistaken for B-Shl, bushel.

Telephone for a carload of charcoal, six bbl. of sugar, and twelve bu. of corn.

270. If two vowels are placed on the same side of a stroke, the one next to the consonant may be written nearer the stroke, as in Owens, cameo. Or, a light tick may be added to the first vowel sign to indicate that another vowel follows.

drawee	snowy	riot	payee	Louis	Noah

271. Yeh may be joined to the stroke, or yuh may be written in the vowel place, to indicate i or e followed by another vowel, as in ammonia, Peoria, India, area, or onion.

272. It is sometimes convenient to join the diphthong I to the end of a stroke, as in rye, Guy, Ohio.

273. The first syllable of a word is often used in longhand as an abbreviation; as, Bap. for Baptist; pub. for public, publish, or published. In like manner, in shorthand the first syllable or syllables are sometimes enough to suggest the whole word. Thus, gov. may be used for govern, governed, or government; accord may be used for according or accordingly.

We shall prob. pub. a list of the prop. holders whom you rep.

274. Sometimes the last syllable of a word is indicated as well as the first, to make the word plainer. Thus, representative, representation. This principle of abbreviation may be applied by each stenographer to his special line of business, provided he confines it to words in every-day use and to words that can be correctly and instantly read when shortened. Some naturally incline to contractions, and find it easy to write and read an abbreviated style that would be very unsafe for others.

WORDSIGNS AND PHRASES

Speed Sentences

They will probably publish a list of the different properties properly. In compliance with your request, will visit you shortly. It is quite characteristic of this individual.

BUSINESS LETTER.

1004

675

Mr. George W. Churchill,
1004 N. Garfield Av., City.

My dear Mr. Churchill:

I note from your correspondence that you were not pleased with the Cornellsville Coal you procured last winter from my partner and myself. While, as you will recall, we told you we could not guarantee this coal, we did regard it as first-class, but were disappointed.

Now, in order that you may be thoroughly satisfied, I should like to furnish you a carload of what is called the "Corning Lump." I will personally take care of your order, and will guarantee this coal as absolutely reliable.

As you of course realize, there will soon be a sharp advance in prices of both coal and charcoal, on account of the strikes in the northern fields. You cannot afford to ignore these conditions, and in order to take advantage of the low prices you will want to lay in a supply of coal at once.

In consideration of your former large orders, we quote you the following unparalleled prices for immediate delivery:

Furnace size . . . . .	$6.75 per ton
Stove     " . . . . .	7.00     "     "

As a rule, our customers get coal direct from the mines, and not coal that has been in stock for several months. Shall we telegraph today for a carload for you? If so, telephone us.

Yours truly,
Charles Goldman.

QUESTIONS.

1. How is Est sometimes written?
2. What is said of the shading in such words as data, figs, etc.?
3. In what class of words is a double letter sometimes represented by two strokes, and why?
4. Write: Prepaid, rewritten, attitude, institute, unmindful. Tell what is peculiar about these words?
5. After what strokes should El be used when there is no final vowel?
6. When should El be used at the beginning of an outline, and for what purpose?
7. In what other cases may El be used?
8. When should El never be used?
9. How is aside written, and why?
10. How are added and about written?
11. When only can a half length be joined without an angle?
12. What strokes may take the small l and r hooks even though a vowel intervenes, and when? Why is this liberty allowed?
13. How may an intervening dot vowel be represented?
14. Where should an intervening dash vowel or diphthong be written?
15. When only may the small l or r hook be used on other strokes regardless of the intervening vowel, and for what three reasons?
16. When necessary to place two vowels on the same side of a stroke, how should they be written?
17. Write: Ammonia, India, area. State the peculiarity of these words?
18. Where is the diphthong I sometimes written?
19. Name some longhand abbreviations that are also used in shorthand.
20. What syllable is often added to the abbreviation to make the word plainer?
21. Write: Publish, probable, represent, correct, public, representation, publicity, popularity, character, probability, representative, publicly, in consideration, in order that, in order to.

LESSON 22.

REVIEW AND MISCELLANY.

277. Review the large hooks, the prefixes, and the affixes; then read and transcribe the exercise below. Write it in shorthand from the transcript, then compare with the printed shorthand. Repeat this process until you have mastered the exercise.

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.
- 5.
- 6.
- 7.
- 8.
- 9.

COMPLETE RULES FOR AR AND RAY.

278. Unless Ar would make an inconvenient joining, use Ar whenever a syllable sounds more like Ar; as,

1. When the word begins with vowel-r.
2. When a word ends in final r.

arrears European orations Irish arbitrary armature flier lower whaler 279. Use Ar between an initial and a final vowel. Ex.

280. Use Ar whenever Ray would make an inconvenient joining, especially before M and Emp.

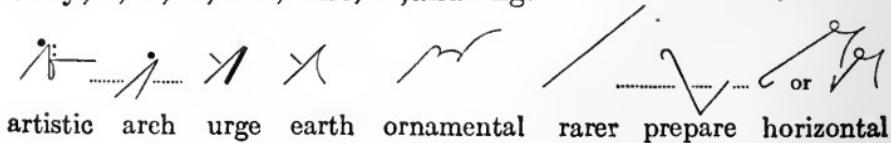

281. Unless Ray would make an inconvenient joining, use Ray whenever the syllable sounds more like Ray; as,

1. When a word begins with initial r.
2. When a word ends in r-vowel.

282. Use Ray whenever Ar would bring the outline too far below the line, or when Ar would make an inconvenient joining, as after M, Emp, Ray and Hay, or before T, D, Chay, J, F, V, Ith, The, N, and Ing.

284. Reporters do not always agree in their choice of Ar or Ray. The general practice, however, is to regard the angle of greater importance in common words, as in w earnest; but to regard the vowel of greater importance in less frequent words, as in o or u Orient. Where authorities differ, it is wise for the individual to follow his natural inclination and use that outline which is easiest for him to write, provided it is also easy to read.

285. As far as practicable, the form of a primitive word should be retained in its derivatives. Thus:

found founder foundry foundation continue continued alteration

286. A derivative is written unlike its primitive when necessary to secure a good joining or to distinguish between words containing the same consonant sounds. Thus:

See seen assign assignor approve approval

287. Conflicting words may be distinguished,

1. By an arbitrary or a natural difference in their outlines; as g gentleman, L agent.
2. By a difference in position; as m migrate, e emigrate.
3. By vocalizing one of the words; as X upper, \ principle.

288. OMISSIONS. W, y, and h are the consonants most frequently omitted. K and Gay are often omitted after Ing, as well as in words beginning with ex.

 junction       sanction       bank       distinguish       anxious

289. Where st occurs in the middle of a word, the t is often omitted.

 postpone       postal       card       mostly       mistaken       westward       earnestly       testify

290. P may often be omitted after m, as in  tempt, consumption. P is also omitted in  capable.

291. R may be omitted in  southern,  surprise, etc.

292. Any consonant may be omitted if it is but slightly sounded or if its insertion is difficult, provided the remaining consonants are sufficient to determine the word with ease and certainty. Thus, l is omitted in  intelligent, n in  transgress,  transaction,  transcribe,  identical, passenger.

293. The syllables most frequently omitted are the adverbial termination ly, the final syllables of a long word, and con or com in words of very frequent occurrence. Ex.

 in consequence,  and contents noted,  reconsider,  positive-ly,  substantial-ly,  sufficient-ly.

The postmaster comprehends the situation, and consequently is well qualified to deal with the Express Company.

294. In phrasing, any word may be omitted which must and will readily be supplied to complete the sense, as to in phrases like  in regard to,  in relation to, etc.

 two or three, more or less,  by and by,  in a few days,  in the first place,  in regard to your request,  with respect to your statement,  with reference to this requirement sooner or later,  over and over again,  now and then,  from day to day

A few words may be indicated by intersections, as follows:

 book agent       War Dept.       Oil Co.       Missionary Society       Gen. Supt. Pacific R. R.

news agent      book dept.      Traffic Assn.      Pacific R. R.

Write the following phrases on a card and keep them with you for reference until you know them.

Your favor, your valued favor, how much,  When it was, where it, in its, there had been, very much, too much, it is said, for instance,  talk it, which will have we hope to have, we can, next day, in some cases, in his way, is it, as it,  we remain, we may be, we have been, never been,

as it is important, as it is impossible,  having been, had been, the first, the second, as it has been, as it seems to me, as it was,  as there had been, was there nothing, with our,

I think it is a, which would be, it would be,  is there anything, in their own, of their own, which had been, they would do, they had done,  at first, at last, at least, at length, it ought to be, it will have to be, of all its,  at all events, at all times, at any rate,

295. INITIALS. It is safer to write most initials in shorthand than in longhand. Use Ray for R, and Gay for G. Use       ,       ,        for C, Q, and X; or better still, write these in longhand small letters. Do not take time to write capital letters when taking dictation.

296. NUMBERS. When alone,        one and        six should always be written in shorthand. It is better to write the following also in shorthand:

      
2	3	4	5	10	12	first	second

297. Numbers consisting of two or more figures are written entirely in figures, with two exceptions:

1. When a number ends in two ciphers, the wordsign for hundred should be used in place of the ciphers. In like manner, thousand is used for three ciphers, and million for six ciphers.

      	      	7(	23	      	9
100	200	7,000	2,300	100,000	9,000,000

2. Twenty, thirty, etc., may be written as follows:

2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
----------	----------	----------	----------	----------	----------	----------	----------

298. PHRASING. Every profession has its technical terms and peculiar phrases. These should be written in full until the writer becomes familiar with them, when they may be abbreviated or phrased with safety and advantage. Thus the sermon reporter may write        kingdom of Heaven,        children of Israel; the law reporter may use such phrases as        what is your business,        where do you reside, or        sworn and examined.

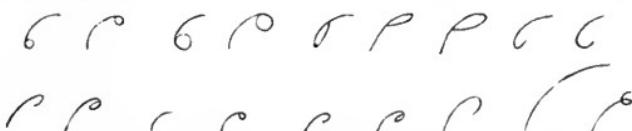

299. Occasionally a special phrase should be formed for a special occasion, as when a long and difficult combination of words is frequently repeated. Thus, _____ may be used for New York Central R. R. Co., _____ for Lake Shore and Michigan Southern R. R. Co. The phrase should be written in full in the margin of the notes near its first insertion.

300. Court reporters enlarge and slant with, were, what, and would, to indicate an added you. Ex. _____ with you, _____ were you, _____ what you _____ would you.

RESUME OF APPENDAGES.

301. All of the appendages that can be joined to a straight stroke are given above with T as a sample stroke. The stroke Lay is given below with the appendages that may be added to a curve.

302. Give the names of these signs as far as you can without referring to the key. In the key, strokes are represented by capitals, and the appendages by small letters.

Key: issT, Ts, sezT, Tsez, stehT, Tst, Tster, wehT, Tl, sTl, Tr, sTr, sezTr, Tef, Tefs, Ten, Tens, Tensez, Tenst, Tenster, Tet, Tets, Teft, Tefts, Tent, Tents, Tshun, Tther, Tway, Tsishun, Tensishun.

IssLay, Lays, sezLay, Laysez, stehLay, Layst, Layster, weL, Ler, Len, Lens, Let, Lets, Lent, Lents, Layshun, Layther, Laysishun.

GENERAL RULES.

303. When writing new matter, use the briefer signs—circles, semicircles, loops, and hooks, also halving or lengthening—unless there is a reason for not using them.

304. Use I for -ted, and I for -ded, detached when there is no angle, or use the light tick for -ed, as is most convenient.

305. Write a long word one syllable at a time, disregarding the less important vowels, and dividing the word according to convenience without reference to the usual method. Thus, cantaloupe should be divided into two syllables, cant-loupe, and written Kent-Lay-P. The five-syllabled word documentary is changed into the three-syllabled dok-ment-ry. In this way, a long word becomes nothing more than two or three short words joined together. Omit obscure consonant sounds, especially when it would be difficult to insert them; write the prominent consonant sound plainly, and, if necessary, insert a vowel to make the word easily read.

Use — for a dash, and { }  for a parenthesis.

WORDSIGNS.

) ( ) , J , 9 , 7 7 + x , v astonish establish wisher spirit knowledge notwithstanding whoever
-ed-ment -ed-ment assure start acknowledge nevertheless have been

Speed sentences:

Notwithstanding all reports, I am astonished at the elegance and enterprising spirit of the establishment. Nevertheless, I can assure-you that-we-have-no knowledge whatever of this transaction. We hereby acknowledge-receipt-of your valued favor. Whoever has had charge of this department has been faithful and trustworthy from start to finish. As there has been a deficiency in-some-cases, we-inclose statement. Continuing your well-wisher and friend, I am sincerely yours. Is-there-anything-more?

BUSINESS LETTER.

This block contains a sample of business correspondence written in Shorthand. The text discusses the receipt of a valued favor, the department's performance, a deficiency in some cases, and the sending of a statement. It concludes with a friendly closing and a question about further correspondence.

Mr. Dwight Allen,
North Orchard and Cherry Sts.,
Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Dear Sir:

In order that the public may know the real character and beauty of our latest designs, we have published the inclosed booklet, illustrating our unsurpassed assortment of Diamonds, Jewels and solid Silver Table and Toilet Ware. We are sure they will interest you by their artistic forms, while their moderate prices will appeal to those who wish to avoid extravagant expenditure. We respectfully refer you to the revised price lists for unparalleled bargains in Jewelry and Silver Ware.

The completeness and variety of our stock of fancy articles of every description afford most attractive possibilities for selection. Should you contemplate a purchase for personal use or for correct gifts, you will find in our Christmas display, styles in advance of any other establishment in the world.

Since the organization of our house, the oldest in the State, we have maintained the highest standards of quality, and have always offered our wares at the lowest possible prices consistent with these requirements. If you have not yet opened an account with us, we invite you to do so, assuring you of every courtesy in our transactions with you.

Very cordially,

Blewett, Fuller & Bro.

QUESTIONS. 1. Name the large hooks, the prefixes, and the affixes, and give an example of each. 2. What is generally indicated by the use of Ar at the beginning of an outline? 3. What is generally indicated by the use of Ar at the end of an outline? 4. Should Ar or Ray be used in arrow, and why? 5. Before what strokes is Ar always used on account of the joining? 6. What is generally indicated when Ray begins an outline? 7. What is generally indicated when Ray ends an outline? 8. After what strokes should Ray be used on account of the joining? 9. What is said of derivative words? 10. In what three ways may words containing the same consonant sounds be distinguished? 11. What consonants are most frequently omitted? 12. Give some examples of the omission of K and Gay? 13. When is t often omitted? 14. Give an example of the omission of p? Of r? Of l? 15. What syllables are most frequently omitted? 16. When may a word be omitted in phrasing? 17. Give some examples of intersections. 18. What is generally the safer way of writing initials? 19. What should be used for R? For G? For C? For Q? For X? 20. What numbers should always be written in shorthand? 21. Write 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, 12, 1st, 2d, 3d, 6th, 10th. 22. Write 100,000. 23. Write 20, 30, 40, 50, 60, 70, 80, 90. 24. Join as many appendages as you can to the stroke T, and write down the names of the combinations. 25. Join as many appendages as you can to Lay, and give the names of the combinations. 26. Give the three general rules.

PHRASES.

- A handwritten cursive script practice sheet featuring 14 numbered rows (1 through 14) for practicing fluid letter strokes. Each row contains a series of connected letters and punctuation marks, such as 'a', 'c', 'e', 'g', 'i', 'l', 'n', 'o', 'r', 's', 't', 'u', 'v', 'w', 'y', 'z', '!', '?', and '(', followed by a horizontal dashed line for tracing.

PHRASES.

- 1
- 2
- 3
- 4
- 5
- 6
- 7
- 8
- 9
- 10
- 11
- 12
- 13
- 14

CONTRACTIONS.

KEY TO PAGE 153.

Line 1. Suggest, suggested, adjust, adjusted, adjourn, tempt, contempt, consumption, presumption, stamped.

Line 2. (Omission of W.) Require, inquire, quality, qualify, dissuade, persuade, persuasion, withdraw, within, withstand.

Line 3. (Omission of Y or U.) Suggestion, behavior, situation, picture, fracture, feature, temperature, literature, moisture.

Line 4. (Omission of H) Comprehend, apprehend, comprehension, apprehension, withhold, behold, inheritance, inherited, behindhand, history.

Line 5. (Omission of T by changing the Stet loop in the middle of a word to a circle.) Mostly, postpone, postal-card, postage, postoffice, testimony, adjustment, western, mistake, customer.

Line 6. (Omission of R when its insertion would be difficult.) Southern, Southerner, quarterly, purpose, surprised, subscribe, superscribe, prescribe, proscribe.

Line 7. Intelligent, intelligence, intelligible, passenger, messenger, brief, or briefly, positively, chiefly, stiffly.

Line 8. (Omission of N where its insertion is difficult.) Pennsylvania, translation, transaction, transcribe, identical, adjournment, assignment, disappointment, abandonment, attainment.

Line 9. (Omission of ing, ent-ly, tial-ly.) Understanding, Thanksgiving, sufficient or sufficiently, efficient-ly, deficient-ly, proficient-ly, substantial-ly, prudential-ly, differential-ly, circumstantial-ly.

Line 10. (Omission of K or Gay after Ing.) Distinguish, anxiety, distinct, distinction, junction, sanction, relinquish, bank, bankrupt.

Some omit K also in the very common words, expenses, exception, except, examine, examination.

Line 11. Explain, explicit, excursion, experiment, express, expressive, etc.

When the sound of K comes between T and the shun hook, some of the best reporters omit the K while others equally expert insert it. K may also be omitted between F and shun. Thus:

Line 12. Attraction, instruction, contraction, distraction, construction, obstruction, misconstruction, satisfaction, justification.

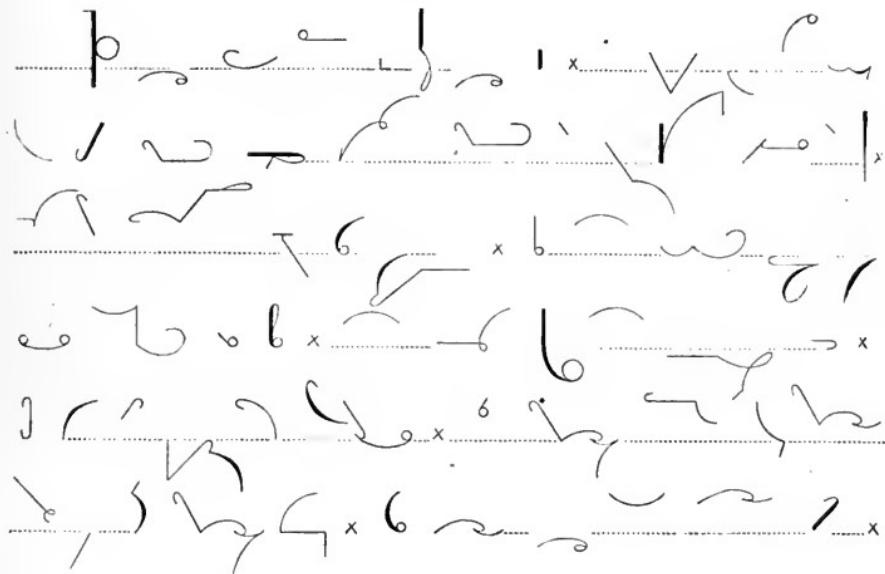

Line 13. New York, inst., prox., reg., irregular, ad. (advertisement), steno. (grapher), Feb., Nov., January.

Line 14. Re-establish, brightness, badness, rewritten, hereafter, supernatural, reorganization, appointment.

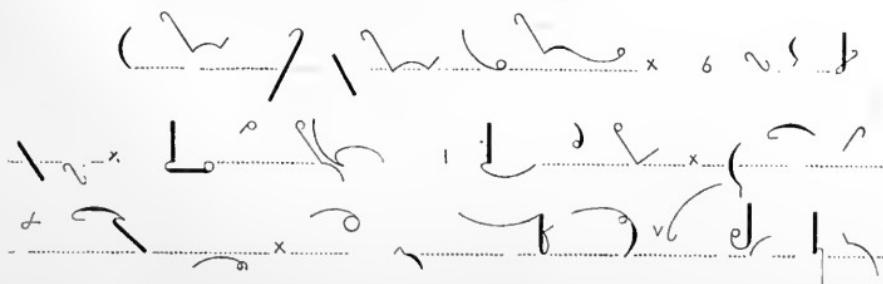

- 1 f f b / J L L ~
- 2 / ~
- 3 f V L ~
- 4 i ~
- 5 ~
- 6 C C ~
- 7 J J J ~
- 8 ~
- 9 ~
- 10 ~
- 11 ~
- 12 ~
- 13 ~
- 14 ~

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.
- 5.
- 6.
- 7.
- 8.
- 9.
- 10.
- 11.
- 12.
- 13.
- 14.

EXERCISE ON CONFLICTING WORDS.

A diseased man is only sick, but a deceased man is dead. The pure-food law is intended for general protection against the wholesale production of poor, adulterated articles of diet. Kindly comply with my request, and apply yourself to your work. It is my intention to call your attention to your son's inattention to his studies. My counsel advises me to cancel the account. Train your child to turn away from evil companions. He is pre-eminently qualified for the prominent position to which he was permanently elected. This eminent man is in imminent danger.

Handwriting practice lines showing cursive script with various strokes and loops.

They permitted George to be promoted for his promptness. He has proved that he deserved to be approved. Douglas is the sport of the family, but Edwin is its support. Though a mere child, he is a remarkable musician. Mrs. Howard introduced the Misses Wilder, daughters of the late editor of our oldest daily. We have written to the firm to retain those forms. Elizabeth is very patient and gentle; consequently she has many devoted friends. Our auditor is very gentlemanly, but the debtor is too passionate.

Handwriting practice lines showing cursive script with various strokes and loops.

Keep a copy of it in the back of the book. It was objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. We naturally feel that he is an unnatural child. We will prosecute you for persecuting us, if you continue your oppression any longer. Now they regard these things as of no value, but they will regret it by-and-by. I think it is ruined, but it may be renewed. Your deductions have heretofore been entirely logical; consequently I am surprised at your recent illogical remarks. His detection was certain and unavoidable. An inevitable conclusion.

He is evidently not a confidant of yours. He is undoubtedly indebted to the Judge for his leniency. He will be indicted soon for perjury. The upper part is not always the principal part, nor the upper house the principal house. God will guide the willing and obedient even unto death, and will lead them into blessedness for evermore. The column looks slight, but it is solid and strong. The preparations are in proportion to the amount of the appropriations. It is just as important to learn to read shorthand as it is to learn to write it.

WORDSIGN REVIEW.

FIRST 100 WORDS.

We have an opportunity to sell a large part of the doctor's property to best advantage. A new member of the Public Library Board is the party who wishes to buy. You will probably remember him when I tell you that he was for a long time a regular general in the United States army. The information is correct I assure you, because he told me the full particulars at the Committee meeting, more than two weeks ago. He remarked that it was somewhat astonishing, though the fact is, this remarkable gentleman is well able to act his own pleasure

SECOND 100 WORDS.

Three lines of cursive shorthand handwriting examples, showing various symbols and strokes.

Is it impossible to tell how much this improvement will cost? Opinions upon this important matter have not been published; nevertheless, it is now commonly reported that it is to be about two million dollars. Are you aware that the Superintendent has begun building an establishment for the government, and that he is also engaged in large advertising schemes? Accordingly it is still quite difficult to give any accurate information on a subject of this nature. I think, however, we can surely afford to pay every cent of its value, whatever that may be, and whichever plan we may adopt.

THIRD 100 WORDS.

Four lines of cursive shorthand handwriting examples, showing various symbols and strokes.

The different representatives under the influence of dear Mr. Short were invited the first of last year to work for the danger signal bill. I have found that whoever deals with him admires his character. To my knowledge he owes nothing and he has several hundred dollars in the bank. I acknowledge there are several good objections which must be overcome before our object can be attained, but it appears that our principal representative is equal to every emergency. Notwithstanding all the obstacles that have been encountered since we began the work, I think we shall yet meet with success.

FOURTH 100 WORDS.

If we ever take hold of this together, I shall rely entirely upon their Secretary's representations, for he has a larger interest than any one else in the passage of the bill. As he has proved himself capable in the past, and can usually balance accounts with those who come in his way, I believe he is equal to anything that may happen in the near future. I do not know what they would do without him to represent them in the future. I feel sure though that he cannot do much until shortly after the first of the year.

FIFTH 100 WORDS.

In consideration of the advantages of the improvements we ought to begin issuing the bonds immediately. Your brother told me that he too had already written to a number of other parties about the issues being behind time, but it appears they had neither public spirit nor pride enough to do what they could toward pushing things. He gave me a very laughable description of his experience with them. I told him that his language and descriptive powers were beyond criticism and that I should thank him to apply himself to practice during the summer and then describe the situation fully.

162 WORDSIGN DICTATION EXERCISE.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
\	\	\	\	\ <sup>3</sup>	\	\	\	\	\	\	\ <sup>2</sup>	\ <sup>5</sup>
\ <sup>2</sup>	\ <sup>3</sup>	\	\ <sup>2</sup>	\ <sup>1</sup>	\ <sup>3</sup>	\	\	\	\	\	\ <sup>2</sup>	\ <sup>3</sup>
\ <sup>2</sup>	\	\	\	\	\ <sup>2</sup>	f	\	\	\	\	\	\ <sup>3</sup>
\ <sup>4</sup>	f	f <sup>3</sup>	l	l	l	t <sup>5</sup>	/	/	/	/	/	7
l	/ <sup>2</sup>	o	—	—	—	— <sup>2</sup>	— <sup>2</sup>	—	— <sup>2</sup>	— <sup>2</sup>	— <sup>2</sup>	7
—	c	c <sup>3</sup>	—	—	—	—	—	— <sup>3</sup>	—	—	—	—
—	\ <sup>3</sup>	\ <sup>3</sup>	\	\	\	\	\	\	\	\	\	\
—	\ <sup>2</sup>	\ <sup>2</sup>	e	(	( <sup>3</sup>	(	(	6	6	\ <sup>2</sup>	)	m
(	(	))	))	)	)	) <sup>2</sup>	)	) <sup>2</sup>	) <sup>2</sup>	) <sup>2</sup>	) <sup>2</sup>	+
\ <sup>2</sup>	\	\	\	\	\	\ <sup>2</sup>	+
\ <sup>2</sup>	\ <sup>3</sup>	\ <sup>2</sup>	(	(	(	(	(	6	6	c	c <sup>2</sup>	\
\	\ <sup>2</sup>	\	\	\	\	\	\	oo	oo	o	.	\
..	.	\	w	l	ll	'	..	'	'	l	l	\
/	/	vvv	A	cc	c	o	..	vv	v	n	n	B

The wordsigns should be written from the longhand but always read or dictated from the shorthand. Study them first in horizontal lines and afterwards always read or write them in vertical columns, both forwards and backwards. Do not leave the exercise until you can read it or write it in four minutes. Then frequently review it.

1	2	3	4	5	6
opportunity	hope	party	appear-ed	principle-al-ly	practice
part	be,object-ed	to be	subject-ed	bill-ed	re-member-ed build-t	able to	board	behind	it	till,tell had, adver-	deal	deliver-	doctor	dear	during
tise-ed-ment		-ed-y
larger	general-ly	gentlemen	gentleman	common	come quite	could	equalled	accord-ing-ly	start	description began	for	feel, fill, fall	full-y, fell	from	after value-ed	over	very, every	whoever	think thousand,	thank-ed that	without	astonish-	establish-	was	wish usually	pleasure	will	are	rather	aware important-	improve-d-	impossible-	any	own	now
-cc	-ment	-ility
nature	under, hundred	entire	information	thing	long a, an	and	all	too, two	already	O, owe on	should	I, eye, high	how	we, with	were

7	8	9	10	11	12
practiced	opinion	upon	happen	experience-ed	particular-ly number-ed	before	been	balance	objection	subjection
until	whatever	told	toward	dollar	do differ-ed-	which	much	advantage	large	danger
-ent-ly-ce
because	equall-y	difficult-y	can	describe-ed	descriptive give-n	together	ago	govern-ed-ment	begin	begun future, fact	afford	ever	have	however	several them	though	this	those	there-ir	other shall-t	issue	wisher	sure-ly	assure-ed	short-ly him	immediately	somewhat	Mr.,remark-ed	more	matter influence	influenced	influences	United States	when	nor, near your	he	is, his	as, has	first	the ought	who-m	of	to	or	but what	would	ye, year	yet	beyond	you

13. publish-ed, public-ly-icity      proper-ly-ty      probable-ly-ility acknowledge knowledge correct character never nevertheless notwithstanding above represent representative representation

A e i u - x
 V v e o - x
 Y y o - x
 J j l m x
 Q q r p i n - x
 D d x o x ~ - x
 C c e n - x 2<sup>50</sup> x
 G g l x o ~ - x
 B b f c b b , ~ - x
 H h x t l c > - x
 N n v l e c ~ - x
 C c r p l b x o ~ - x
 M m f l x 8 e . - x
 F f l q - x ~ - x

The image shows a single page of handwritten cursive text. The script is fluid and cursive, with many letters connected by strokes. There are several horizontal lines across the page, which appear to be guidelines for the handwriting. The text is written in black ink on a white background. The handwriting is somewhat uniform in style, though there are variations in letter height and thickness.

A cursive handwriting practice line consisting of four rows of connected letters and symbols. The first row starts with a 'K' followed by a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash, then a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash. The second row starts with a 'l' followed by a 'c' with a dot, then a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash. The third row starts with a 'c' with a dot followed by a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash. The fourth row starts with a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash followed by a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash.

A cursive handwriting practice line consisting of four rows of connected letters and symbols. The first row starts with a 'l' followed by a 'c' with a dot and a 'v'. The second row starts with a 'c' with a dot followed by a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash. The third row starts with a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash followed by a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash. The fourth row starts with a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash followed by a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash.

A cursive handwriting practice line consisting of four rows of connected letters and symbols. The first row starts with a 'l' followed by a 'c' with a dot and a 'v'. The second row starts with a 'c' with a dot followed by a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash. The third row starts with a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash followed by a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash. The fourth row starts with a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash followed by a 'v' with a dot and a horizontal dash.

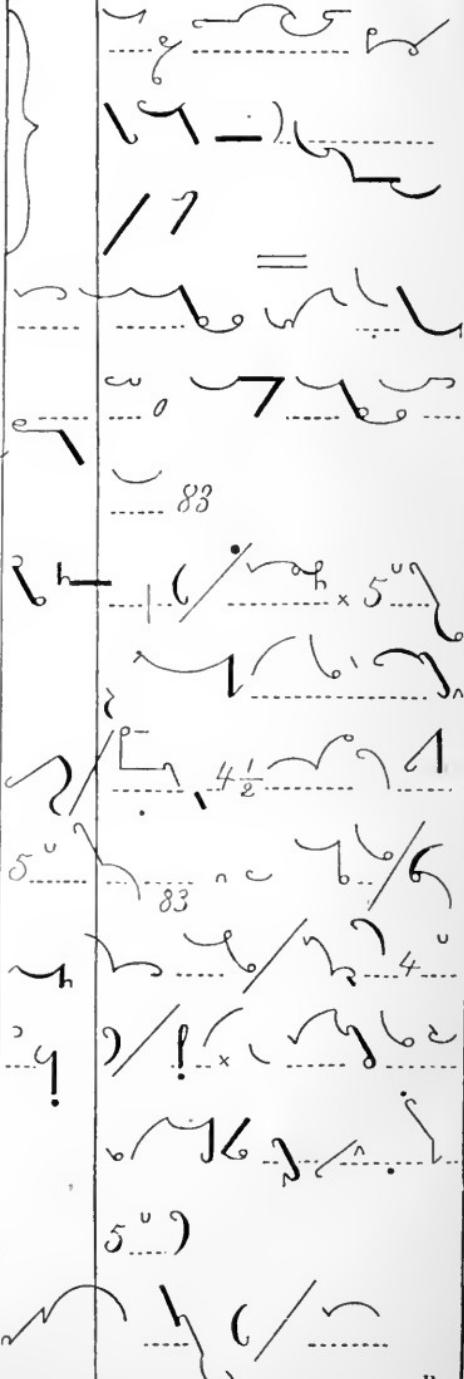

A handwritten musical score consisting of four staves. The top staff uses a treble clef, the second staff an alto clef, the third staff a bass clef, and the bottom staff a bass clef. The music includes various note heads (solid black, open, and cross-hatched), stems, and beams. Measure numbers 1 through 10 are written above the staves. The score concludes with a large 'B' at the bottom left.

*State of Missouri
vs.*

*Hugh M. Brooks
alias
W. H. Maxwell*

The image displays five horizontal rows of cursive handwriting practice. Each row consists of a series of connected strokes and loops, designed to help with letter formation and fluidity. The rows are separated by short vertical lines. Row 1 starts with a large 'd' at the top, followed by a 'k', a 't', and a 'g'. Row 2 features a 'z', a 'l', a 'j', and a 'q'. Row 3 includes a 'y', a 'w', a 'r', and a 'p'. Row 4 contains a 'b', an 'e', an 'n', and an 'm'. Row 5 concludes with a 'v', an 'f', an 'h', and a 's'.

	25
z	V A Y U
o A	R / G or 6
v	V R D Y L 2
w	W M C
b	B D P

This image shows a single vertical column of handwritten cursive script on lined paper. The script is fluid and appears to be a form of modern English handwriting. The lines consist of horizontal dashed lines with vertical dotted midlines. The handwriting includes various letters and punctuation marks such as 'a', 'c', 'e', 'g', 'h', 'i', 'l', 'n', 'o', 'r', 's', 't', 'u', 'v', 'w', 'x', 'y', 'z', and punctuation like a question mark and a period. The strokes are generally slanted to the right, with some variations in orientation and thickness.

STATE OF MISSOURI,
vs.
HUGH M. BROOKS,
alias
W. H. M. XWELL.

In the St. Louis Criminal Court,
State of Mo.
Before Hon. G. S. Van Wagoner,
Judge and Jury.

APPEARANCES.

For the State: Ashley C. Clover, Circuit Attorney.

Marshall F. McDonald, Asst. Circuit Attorney.

For the Defendant: Martin and Fauntleroy.

Defendant sworn in his own behalf testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY P. W. FAUNTLEROY.

- Q. State your full name. A. Hugh Mottram Brooks.
- Q. How old are you? A. Twenty-five.
- Q. Where were you born? A. In Hyde, Cheshire, England.
- Q. Is Hyde your home? A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Are your parents living at the present time? A. They are, sir.
- Q. When did you first engage in business, Mr. Brooks? A. Do you mean to practice or study?
- Q. I mean in any business, after you left off being a school-boy, when did you first engage in business of any kind? A. In 1883.
- Q. What business did you go at then? A. I misunderstood you. Five years previous to that I entered the law office of Mr. Brown.
- Q. Where was that? A. Stockport, about four and a half miles from Hyde.
- Q. Five years prior to 1883, you went into his office? A. Yes, sir.
- Q. How long did you remain in his office? A. I remained there over four years.
- Q. What were you doing there? A. Studying law. After I left Brown's office, I went to his London agents, Messrs. Brown & Howe, and completed the five years there.
- Q. You are a lawyer by profession, then? A. I am.
- Q. Have you ever studied medicine or surgery? A. I have.
- Q. To what extent? A. Well, at the Collegiate school in Manchester, I was on the science side, and the curriculum included physiology, anatomy, chemistry, and kindred sciences.
- Q. At the Collegiate school at Manchester? A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Did you study medicine otherwise than you have mentioned, there? Have you ever studied outside of these studies or in addition to these studies? A. I have.
- Q. How long did you study it? A. More or less ever since I left school. I was very much interested in science and medical studies generally, and I tried to keep up my knowledge of them as far as I could.
- Q. You are not a licensed physician, are you? A. I am not.
- Q. Never received any diploma or license as a physician? A. No, sir; not as a physician.
- Q. You have as a lawyer? A. I have as a lawyer.
- Q. How long did you practice law, Mr. Brooks? A. Not quite two years; as near as I can remember, about a year and nine months.
- Q. I will get you to state to the jury when and where you first met Mr. Preller, O. Arthur Preller. A. On board the—well, I first met him at the Northwestern hotel, Liverpool, but I first became acquainted with him on board the steamship Cephalonia.
- Q. You first met him at the Northwestern hotel, Liverpool? A. Yes, sir; that was the evening previous to the day on which the ship sailed.
- Q. That was the day prior to sailing? A. Yes, sir; the day prior to sailing.
- Q. You say that you met him then, but that you did not become acquainted with him. Did you have any introduction or know who he was at that time? A. No, sir.

REVIEW QUESTIONS.

1. Write and name all of the up strokes; the down strokes; the horizontals. (See Pars. 166, 168, and 253.)
2. Name the first-, second-, and third-place vowels. What vowels are written by the first stroke and what vowels are written by the second stroke, when occurring between two strokes?
3. Which vowel governs the position of a word, and which stroke in the outline is placed in position?
4. Give the three positions for horizontals; for other strokes—full lengths; — half lengths.
5. What words need position, and what words do not?
6. Name the brief signs given in Lesson 5, and state what each one represents and what care should be taken in its formation.
7. Give the rules for the circles and loops. (Lesson 7.)
8. Describe each small hook, and show how it is combined with iss. What hooks are combined with sez, steh, and ster; and how?
9. Write: Pef, Pefs, Peft, Pefts, Pen, Pens, Penses, Penst, Penster, Pent, Pents.
10. Write and name the Pl and the Pr series, and state what is indicated by them. Can they ever be used with an intervening vowel? (Lesson 21.)
11. Name all of the large hooks; both initial and final.
12. What is the effect of doubling Ing? Emp? What else is added by doubling?
13. Name six half lengths. When only may Ray and Hay be halved.
14. How may -ted, -ded, or -ed be represented?
15. When should halving not be employed? (Lesson 17.)
16. Write: Assume, awoke, policy, coffee, serve, survey,

Wyoming, science, data, date, radiate, ruin, mean, cycle, seeker, zero, riot, berate, elevate, right, writing. Give a reason in each case for choice of stroke or brief sign.

17. Before what strokes may heh be used?
18. When should Ar and when should Ray be used?
19. Name two strokes before which Ar is always used.
20. Name others after which Ray is always used.
21. Name the strokes after which El is used.
22. When should El be used at the beginning of an outline?
23. Name the prefixes; the affixes.
24. When should the ishun curl be used instead of the shun hook, and how is it vocalized?
25. Which word in a phrase should be written in position? Give exceptions.
26. What classes of words should be phrased?
27. How is I represented in phrasing? He? You? Us? Is or his? As or has? We? Not? With? May be? Have been?
28. Give three ways of representing there or they are; two ways of representing their.
29. What words may be indicated by the n hook? The v hook? The l hook? The r hook?
30. What word may be indicated by halving?
31. Give examples of lapping; of intersections; of omissions of letters, syllables, and words.

INDEX.

- A*, obscure, par. 20; as in chair, 21; ah and o, 128.
Affixes, 53, 242-251.
Ah and short o, 128.
Alphabet, 1, 7, 9, p. 11, par. 28, pp. 18, 25, 26, 32.
Angles, 24, 42, 43, 284.
Are, 57, 239, 240.
Ar or Ray, 24, 40, 169, 278-284.
Brief Signs, p. 32, par. 118.
Broken outlines, 256, 304, p. 153.
C, ch, qu and x, 38.
Cannot, 233.
Cautions, 4, 5, 23, 32, 103, 104.
Co., 90, 151, 294.
Con-, 150, 218.
Conflicting words, 160, 287, pp. 155-157.
Contractions, 273, 274, pp. 152, 153.
Dash, p. 78, par. 305.
Derivatives, 116, 285-286.
Direction of strokes, 8, 36, 137, 162, 165.
Dot wordsigns, 140.
Double lengths, 188-194, 224, 225.
Double letters, 37, 255.
-ed tick, 159.
El or Lay, 137, 165-166, 196, 257-261.
Est, 253.
Exceptions, 178, 253-274.
H, stroke or tick, 9, 39, 203.
H, omitted, 78, 288.
Halving, 25-27, 44, 204-215, 262, 263.
Halving for it, 216.
I have, 33, 186, 239.
Hay and Ray, when not halved, 27.
He, 18, 133, 236.
Hooks: Small final, 141-148, 153, 156, 200, 206-215, 225, 239, 264 “ “ initial, pp. 70, 81, 178-185, 239, 265-269.
    “ Large initial, 195-197, 201.
    “ “ final, 198-201, 251,
    “ v-hook on curves, 264.
I (pronoun), 18, 56, 135, 234, 235.
I and Oi, joined, 70, 109, 272.
In re-, 252, 294.
-ing, ing-the, 53.
Initials, 295.
Intersections, 151, 294.
Ish or Shay, 168.
-ishun, 249-251.
Iss, 28-32, p. 32, par. 121-125, 148, 157, 163, 182, 203-215, 232.
It, 18, 216.
Loops, p. 32-34, par. 123, 124, 127, 129.
Must, 238.
Nomenclature, 26, 44, 68, 139, 143, 161, 179, 302.

INDEX.

- Not*, 233.
Numbers, 296, 297.
Of, 33, 152, 153, 186, 239, 240.
Of-the, 55.
Omissions, 158, 177, 178, 274, 288-294, p. 152.
On, 57.
One, 239.
Order of reading, 29, 30, 46, 47, 81, 119, 120.
“ “ writing, 3, 48.
Our, 239, 240.
Ow, joined, 99, 109.
Own, 186, 239.
Parentheses, 258, 305.
Past tenses, 159, 304.
Phrasing, 16-18, 133-135, 224-241, 294, 298-300, pp. 150-151.
Position, pp. 25, 37.
“ described, 74, 75, 112.
“ determined by which vowel, 71.
“ object of, 114.
“ when used, 117, 118, 170.
“ which stroke in, 28, 49, 73, 74, 113.
“ which word in, 77, 133, 230.
Prefixes, 150, 217-223.
Ray or Ar, 24, 40, 169, 278-284.
Sez, Stel, and Ster, pp. 32-34, par. 118-129, 148, 157, 232, 289.
Ray and Chay, 11, 41.
Rules, 110, 122-124, 133, 204-206, 210-212, 303-305.
Shaded half lengths, 136-138, 263.
Shading gradually, 254.
Silent letters, 2, 37.
Special vocalization, 265-272.
Speed Sentences, 242.
Stroke or Brief sign, 9, 31, 45-47, 125, 202-215, 303.
Syllable writing, 305.
Testimony, pp. 168-170.
Than, 186, 239.
Their, there and they-are, 194, 241.
Ticks, 16-18, 51, 52, 131, 133, 159, 229, 230.
To, 18, 160.
Vowels, by which stroke, 12, 69, 102, 110.
Vowels omitted, 72, 114, 115, 147.
Vowel sentences, p. 43, par. 72, 100.
W and y, p. 32, par. 87, 88, 130, 177, 214, 271
We, 90, 104, 237.
Wh, 83, 89.
Will, pp. 15, 72, par. 239.
With, 90, 237. With-you, were-you, etc., 300.
Wordsigns, explained, 15.
Wordsigns and phrases, 18, p. 15, par. 57, 90, 104, 140, 160, 164, 169, 186, 194, 201, 216, 223, 252, 274, 305.
Wordsign Reviews, pp. 76, 77, 158-163.
You, 18, 54, 134, 231. Z, 125, 202. (See iss.)

BARNES' BUSINESS LETTERS IN SHORTHAND

A DICTATION COURSE to Supplement the THEORY COURSE

63 BUSINESS LETTERS

Selected from actual correspondence pertaining to Mercantile, Law, Railroad, Farm Machinery, Lumber, Advertising, Carriage Manufacturing, Commission, and Miscellaneous Subjects, in engraved SHORTHAND with printed KEY.

The letters should be written from the printed Key, and corrected by comparison with the Shorthand; then practiced many times for both speed and accuracy.

FOOTNOTES

Are given in connection with the Key, which greatly assist the pupil in phrasing and in the selection of outlines. They also give many optional wordsigns and contractions which are not found in the texts.

TESTIMONY—

21 shorthand pages of interesting and instructive testimony, with transcript including a properly arranged title page in reduced facsimile of typewriting. This matter is of special value to those aspiring to court or legal work, but every stenographer should have some knowledge of such proceedings.

100 LETTERS IN PRINT,

Representing many different lines of business, and including a great variety of technical words and phrases, furnish excellent matter for dictation and practice. No shorthand key is given, for at this stage in his course the pupil should be able to construct new outlines accurately and rapidly.

There are short and long letters, ranging from about 50 to 400 words. The exact number of words in each letter is given, and each one hundred is checked off. This applies also to the 63 letters.

Price, $1.00

THE ARTHUR J. BARNES PUBLISHING COMPANY,
St. Louis, Mo.

BARNES'— SHORTHAND READERS.

These Readers contain a large amount of finely engraved shorthand, the matter being carefully selected, and calculated to instruct as well as interest. Reading correctly engraved phonography not only helps the stenographer read his own notes, but the resulting familiarity with new outlines is a great factor in his speed. It also tends to eliminate errors in his own writing.

READER NO. 1

contains 24 pages of shorthand, a large part of the matter being in the nature of stories. Price, postpaid, 30 cents.

READER NO. 2

has 36 pages of shorthand. Most of the matter is of special interest to stenographers, one article being a most valuable contribution by Hon. Wm. T. Harris, U. S. Commissioner of Education, on "Getting Speed." Price, 50 cents.

READER NO. 3

contains 37 pages of shorthand very general in character. Articles on ancient relics and ruins, business letters, and practical talks, occupy a part of the space. Price, 50 cents.

READER NO. 4—TESTIMONY.

21 pages of shorthand of special value to those aspiring to court work or a position in a law office. The key contains a reduced facsimile of nicely arranged typewritten title page of Transcript of Testimony. Price, 30 cents.

ARTHUR J. BARNES PUB. CO.,

St. Louis, Mo.

"How to Become Expert in Typewriting.

BARNES',

Complete Typewriting Instructor.

An unabridged work on typewriting, containing an illustrated chapter on the Mechanism of the typewriter, and directions for cleaning, oiling, and adjusting the machine.

Touch Typewriting.

The first lessons strongly emphasize the importance of keeping the hands in the proper position, and give instructions for locating the "home keys" without the help of the eyes.

The beginning of a typewriting course is the most important part. The first word given in the touch lessons is all. This brings both hands into action, producing a balanced motion. The weak (third and fourth) fingers are trained first—the scientific basis of firm, even, touch typewriting. The succeeding exercises include additional letters, combined with those in the previous lessons, until all of the keyboard is thoroly learned.

The practice exercises consist of every-day business words and logical sentences—not meaningless combinations of letters. These exercises are printed in facsimile of typewriting, showing the exact arrangement of work.

COMMERCIAL WORK.

Advanced practice exercises consist of Business Letters, Superscription of Envelopes, Manifolding, Legal Forms, Specifications, Postal Cards, Display Lines, Ornamental Typewriting, etc.; Tabulated Work on Invoices, Account Sales, Orders, Statements, Bills, etc. Practical Advise to Stenographers is also given in the form of exercises to be neatly and correctly written.

Punctuation is considered from a business standpoint, and concise rules are given, illustrated by examples.

The Spelling and Proper Use of greatly abused common words is presented in a unique and original series of drills.

General Office Duties are explained, such as making Letterpress Copies, Indexing, Filing Letters, Mimeographing, writing and confirming Cipher Dispatches, etc.

Dictation Work.

In addition to the work on typewriting, the Complete Instructor includes a Dictation Course for the shorthand work, containing

180 BUSINESS LETTERS

General Railroad Correspondence, Passenger Department, Mail Service Department, Freight Department, Railway Construction, Wholesale Cracker Co., Wholesale Drugs, Internal Revenue, Wholesale Saddlery, Hardware, Iron, Coke, Insurance and Finance, Commission, Lumber, Grain, Patent, Mining, Electricity, Miscellaneous. The letters average about 175 words, aggregating over 35,000. The number of words in each letter is indicated, each 100 being markt.

(Separate Shorthand Key to difficult words and useful phrases. Price, 30 cents.)

LEGAL FORMS

Such as any stenographer may be called upon to write. Among them are Contracts, Articles of Partnership, Affidavits, Wills, Deeds, Bonds, etc., in facsimile of typewriting. There are others in ordinary print, such as Bonds, Acknowledgments, Arbitration and Award, Deeds, Mortgages, Instructions for Depositions with Form of Notice, Caption, Certificates to Depositions, etc.

A Bill of Exceptions furnishes a complete outline for arranging record of proceedings in court—Evidence, Instructions of the Court, Verdict, Motion for New Trial, etc.

A bona fide Civil Service Examination in shorthand and typewriting, is an example of what is required of applicants for government positions.

A list of 7,000 Technical Terms affords excellent practice matter for those wishing to qualify for a particular business, such as Architecture, Drugs, Dry Goods, Electricity, Groceries, Hardware, Insurance, Law, Lumber, Medical, Railroad. An additional list gives the names and abbreviations of about 100 Railroad Lines and Branches.

Special Typewriting Instructor

Contains the portions of the Complete which are devoted especially to Typewriting, the illustrated chapter on the Mechanism of the machine, Miscellaneous Legal Forms, Specifications, Important Office Directions and Valuable Suggestions on Clerical Work, Ornamental Typewriting, Spelling Drills, Punctuation. 110 pages. Cloth Binding. Price, $1.00.

---

Abridged Typewriting Instructor

Contains the Touch Lessons and fingering exercises the same as in the Complete; exercises on Commercial Correspondence, Manifolding, selected Legal Forms, Ornamental Typewriting, etc. 64 Pages. Price, 50 cents.

---

There are different editions for the Remington, Smith Premier, and Oliver machines. The Remington edition is adapted to use with most shift-key machines.

---

Helps for Stenographers or

Barnes' Reference and Dictation Book

Contains the Dictation Course and Supplementary Work given in the Complete Instructor, including the Business Letters, Legal Forms, Technical Terms and Civil Service Examination. 126 Pages. Cloth Binding. Price, 75 cents.

THE ARTHUR J. BARNES PUB. CO.,

St. Louis, Mo.

CATALOG
OF
The Arthur J. Barnes Pub. Co.
ST. LOUIS, MO.

Brief Course in Benn Pitman Shorthand.....	$1.25
(Also publisht as "Practical Course.")
Brief (and Practical) Course in Graham Shorthand.....	1.25
Companion to above, Keys and Suggestions.....	.25
Barnes' Shorthand Manual, 1893. Benn Pitman.....	1.25
Shorthand Lessons by the Sentence Method, 1900. Benn Pitman .....	1.25
Shorthand for High Schools, 1900. Benn Pitman.....	1.25
Business Letters in Shorthand. Benn Pitman.....	1.00
Business Letters in Graham Phonography. Series 1 and Series 2, each.....	.50
Barnes' Shorthand Dictionary and Phrase Book. Pocket Edition. 176 pages. 18,000 words and 3,500 phrases with shorthand outlines. Cloth.....	1.25
Leather, round corners, gold embossing.....	1.60
With Marginal Index, extra.....	.15
Graham Shorthand Dictionary, 20,000 words.....	1.00
Shorthand Reader No. 1. Benn Pitman.....	.30
Shorthand Reader No. 2. Benn Pitman.....	.50
Shorthand Reader No. 3. Benn Pitman.....	.50
Shorthand Reader No. 4. Testimony. Benn Pitman....	.30
Wordsign List and Drills. For Barnes writers desiring more wordsigns and contractions than are taught in the text-books.....	.25
Complete Typewriting Instructor, or How to Become... Expert in Typewriting. 220 pages.....	1.50
(Different editions for different machines.)
Special Typewriting Instructor, 110 pages. ....	1.00
(Different editions for different machines.)
Abridged Typewriting Instructor.....	.50
(Different editions for different machines.)
Helps for Stenographers, or Barnes' Reference and Dictation Book, containing the Dictation and Supplementary portions of the Complete Instructor.....	.75
Shorthand Key to the Dictation Matter in the Complete Instructor and Helps for Stenographers. Benn Pitman	.25
The Stenographic Expert.....	2.00
Exercises for Punctuating.....	.15
Pen Notebooks, single or double-ruled, 192 pages.....	.10
Postpaid .....	.20
Pencil Notebooks, double-ruled, 192 pages, postpaid.....	.15

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA LIBRARY
Los Angeles

This book is DUE on the last date stamped below.

SEP 10 1959

Form L9-25m-9, '47 (A5618) 444

UNIVERSITY of CALIFORNIA

Z56

B26b Barnes - Barnes' brief course in Benn Pitmann shorthand.

A 000 561 629 7

JUL 7 1955

Z56
B26b

S. O. BAKER
LAWYER
DALLAS, TEX

